Mansfielder Killed as Train Hits Auto

DRIVER INJURED; FATALITY FIFTH IN COUNTY IN '38

Steel Mill Employe Victim of Accident At Crossing, Unprotected At Night; Grade One of 5 Which State Has Ordered Guarded At All Hours.

Killed instantly when a westbound freight train crashed into the light car in which he was riding at the unprotected North Diamond street crossing of the Erie railroad last night, Joseph Mendoza, 38, of 75 Daisy street, became Richland county's fifth traffic victim of the year. Up to this time last year, nine persons had lost their lives in traffic accidents.

The driver of the car, John Fetter, 30, of 102 Daisy street, a fellow workman at the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, was in General hospital today suffering from lacerations and body bruises. Hospital attaches reported his condition as "fair."

Mendoza's death was the second grade crossing fatality in the city since Jan 1 and the third in the county this year at an unprotected crossing.

Mendoza was killed instantly at 11:30 p. m. when Fetter's car was hurled 20 feet from the railroad right-of-way by the force of the impact. His body was found under the machine by police who were called to the scene. Fetter, unconscious, was still at the wheel.

Both were taken to the hospital in an ambulance where Dr. Hugh C. Winbigler, Richland county coroner, said that Mendoza had died of a fractured skull. He also suffered a crushed chest and one leg was fractured.

Saw Train Too Late.

At General hospital today, Fetter told Dr. Winbigler that they were on their way home at the time of the accident. He said he saw the train too late to avoid the crash and had accelerated the car in an attempt to clear the crossing.

Fetter said the locomotive struck the side of the car on which Mendoza was riding.

Members of the train crew were John Tucker, engineer; J. F. Hurd, conductor; C. W. Hill, fireman, and A. H. Ecker, brakeman, all of Marion. The loaded freight was en route from Kent to Marion, company officials said.

Application For Mansfield Radio Station Refused

The application of Allen T. Simmons, Akron, for permission to erect and operate a radio station in Mansfield has been denied by the federal communications commission, an Associated Press dispatch to The News-Journal said today.

The commission granted permission to the Sharon (Pa.) Herald Broadcasting company to erect a station in Sharon, on the same wave length as that sought by Simmons in his application for a Mansfield station.

In its decision, the commission reversed recommendations of Examiner Melvin H. Dalberg, who urged last May that Simmons, an engineer at Station WADC, Akron, be permitted to build a station here and that the Sharon company's application be rejected.

COOKING SCHOOL ENDS IN CHEERS

1,200 Applaud Lecturer at Final Session; Economy Dishes Predominate.

The News-Journal's 1938 cooking school closed today on a note of approval from more than 1,200 women who packed the main floor of the Ohio theater and overflowed into the balcony. Miss Ruth Chambers, lecturer and director of the four-day school was given a rousing hand at the end of the final session.

As the 1938 school slipped into the history of cookery projects in Mansfield, the concensus was that the event this year was one of the most practical ever presented here.

While a week of unusually fine weather kept many women home for housecleaning, the school drew a total attendance of more than 4,000, with a small showing each day of men. A note of economy in food and cooking was predominated throughout the four sessions of the school.

Today Miss Chambers gave a number of recipes for party pastries, along with practical meat dishes. Her roasts, cooked in open pans without water, and looking like a magazine picture when

LOYALISTS FLEE

Abandon Hope of Stopping Insurgents on Way to Sea.

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier—(UP)—The Spanish loyalists, abandoning hope of stopping the nationalist drive to the eastern seacoast, exacuated Vinaroz today.

A dispatch from Barcelona disclosed that the grand headquarters of the international brigade had been transferred from Albacete, southwest of Valencia, to "somewhere in Catalonia."

This, with a Laconic dispatch that army headquarters in "southern areas" were being evacuated, was taken to mean that the loyalists intended to concentrate their defenses in the Catalonian and Madrid areas for the final phase of the war which ends its 21st month Sunday.

The nationalists had at their mercy the coastal road which connects Barcelona with Valencia.

CHILD, 4, KILLED

Son of Crawford County Couple Runs Into Moving Car.

BUCYRUS —(INS)— Robert, 4-year old son of Mrs. Martha Tatman, was killed instantly today when he ran against a moving automobile while playing near his home at Brokensword. The child's neck was broken. Sheriff Albert French absolved the driver, Wallace Cobb, of blame.

POSTMAN'S HOLIDAY

STERLING, Colo.—(AP)—Policemen attending a peace officers' school grabbed their rifles and broke class to form a posse when a gunman robbed Mrs. V L. Aiken in her auto on a crowded street.

BRADLEY WINS FREEDOM IN PERJURY CASE

Grand Jury Refuses to Indict Asphalt Salesman Who Told of Davey 'Collections.'

NO COMMENT BY GOVERNOR

Greets 'No Bill' Decision by Cuyahoga County Probing Body With Silence.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—A grand jury today refused to indict Lee Bradley on perjury charges brought by Gov. Martin L. Davey against his former political contact man.

Davey filed the charge against Bradley after the 57-year-old Cleveland asphalt salesman told a state senate investigating committee that Davey solicited utility and automobile company representatives for campaign contributions in his successful 1934 gubernatorial campaign.

Free On Bond.

Bradley has been at liberty under $1,000 bond since he was bound over to the jury March 16 after a preliminary hearing in Cleveland municipal court.

At Columbus, Governor Davey declined comment.

Governor Davey, his brother Paul Davey, and L. L. Tremper, representative of General Motors Motor Truck corporation, testified before the grand jury. Bradley's appeal that he be allowed to appear to present his side — which court attaches described as virtually unprecedented—was refused.

Bradley told the senate committee he and Davey conferred in New York with Tremper and obtained promise of a $25,000 campaign contribution from General Motors corporation in return for half the state's motor car business. General Motors denied Bradley's statement.

He testified further that Tremper agreed on the part of General Motors corporation to pay Bradley ten to 35 per cent commission on all equipment bought by the state from General Motors corporation, and that of the commissions to be paid Bradley, Governor Davey was to receive half.

Both Deny Charges.

Davey and Tremper, at the preliminary hearing, denied that campaign matters were discussed, insisting the conference related to compressors manufactured by the Davey Compressor company at Kent, O.

Ohio's two-term governor, now seeking his third two-year term, told of using Bradley on two political missions—in an attempt to line up Democratic presidential delegates in 1932 for Newton D. Baker, and a year later when Davey sought to become secretary of agriculture in the Roosevelt cabinet.

9 ESCAPE AS VESSELS CRASH

Boston Fishermen Safe After Craft Sinks In Ocean.

BOSTON —(INS)— Nine Boston fishermen escaped with their lives today off Seal Island, N. S., when the fishing dragger Exeter was rammed by another vessel.

Captain Vernon Nickerson and his crew of eight took to the lifeboats. Coast guard cutters Harriet Lane and Algonquin, 40 miles away, were dispatched to the scene.

The Exeter went down so quickly no details of the crash on Brown's fishing banks, 50 miles south southwest of Seal island, were sent by radio.

They'll Spend, Lend if FDR Wins

If President Roosevelt's relief and business pump-priming program is adopted, the four men pictured above will be even more important in the national picture as public works' builders, relief spenders and business lenders. It will be through their organizations that credit and dollars will flow. The four are Harold L. Ickes, secretary of interior, directing the Public Works Administration; Harry L. Hopkins, director, and Aubrey Williams, assistant director, of the Works Progress Administration, and Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

City Recalls Sacrifice On Cross; Thousands Worship

Public Offices and Stores Close as Anniversary of Christ's Death Is Observed In Crowded Churches.

Thousands of Mansfield worshippers put aside the cares and routine activities of a mundane world today to join all Christendom in observing the most solemn day of the Christian calendar—the anniversary of that day on which Jesus walked the long way to Calvary and was crucified there for the salvation of mankind.

In four Mansfield churches this noon there were services that marked Good Friday.

City, county and state offices were closed at noon and Mansfield stores closed from 11:30 to 1 o'clock so that employes might have time to worship and to hear the spiritual messages that were delivered at two union services.

Marks End of Lent.

Today marks the end of the Lenten season. And just as Good Friday is the darkest and most tragic day in the history of Christendom, so Easter Sunday is the most joyful, for it marks the resurrection, a sign to all men that there is life after death. Christian churches throughout the world will throw aside the somber note of mourning which predominates Good Friday, and will take on the joyousness of a new day and a new life.

The Holy City of Jerusalem today led the world in mourning the RAINY EASTER?

Weather Forecast Predicts Rainy Week-End.

If the weatherman is right, umbrellas will occupy a more prominent place in the Easter parade than new spring hats.

And it may be a little chillier Sunday than it is today. The forecast says the week-end will be rainy.

Of course, there's some consolation. The weatherman has been predicting rain most of the week, and so far as Mansfield is concerned there hasn't been any. He may be wrong about Easter weather, too — but he may be right.

The forecast for tomorrow is just like it has been for the last couple days — Cloudy, and probably showers. Meanwhile, though the skies were cloudy today, the mercury stood at 72 at noon, four degrees under yesterday's high. The low last night was 59, and the average for 24 hours was 67.5, nearly 20 degrees above normal, according to Observer Otto Sprunger.

MAPS APPEAL

Mrs. Hahn's Counsel To Ask Board To Commute Sentence.

CINCINNATI —(INS)— Defense counsel said today an appeal would be made next week to the state clemency board to recommend to Gov. Martin L. Davey that he commute the death sentence of Anna Marie Hahn, Cincinnati poison murderess.

As a last resort her attorneys says the U. S. supreme court would be asked to overthrow the death verdict. May 4 was the date set for Mrs. Hahn's execution.

HERBERT TO RUN

He'll Announce As Candidate For Lieutenant Governor Tonight.

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Paul M. Herbert, Columbus attorney, said today he would announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor at a meeting of the Buckeye Republican club here this evening. Herbert has twice been the Republican nominee for the office. He is a former member of the state legislature.

Residence Questioned, 6 City Employes Called Before Board

Six city employes who residential status was in question today had been ordered to appear before the civil service commission for a special hearing tonight.

The action was taken last night as the commission approved the municipal payroll and called upon city officials to have the six employes, whose one year priority residence was in question, to be present at a session tonight.

Freh H. Huber, chairman of the commission declined to reveal the names of the employes but it was believed that the list submitted to Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert included several street and water department employes and at least one employe of the city engineering department.

The hearing follows action taken by the commission last week in ordering all unclassified positions placed under civil service. The commission at that time adopted a resolution calling for the mandatory dismissal after April 15 of all employes who could not definitely establish to the commission that they had been residents of Mansfield one year prior to their appointment.

Huber told Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Styert that the commission would call for examina-

RE-APPRAISAL TO BOOST TAX BILL $50,000

Real Estate Valuations Here and in Shelby Increased From 5 to 10 Per Cent.

COMPLETE WORK AUG. 1

Added Revenue Expected to Aid Schools; $5,000,000 Added to Tax Duplicate.

Re-appraisal of real estate in Richland county which will be completed about Aug. 1 will increase valuations from five to 10 per cent and produce nearly $50,000 additional tax revenue annually in Mansfield and Shelby, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe predicted today.

Required every six years by the state tax commission, the re-appraisal will boost the Mansfield and Shelby tax values about $5,000,000, restoring part of the reductions totaling 40 per cent which have been made since the last re-appraisal, the auditor said.

Benefits Schools.

The added tax revenue resulting from the increase in land values is expected to be of marked benefit to schools in the city and county which have lacked funds since values were reduced during the depression.

The new values will be released about Aug. 15 and property owners will have an opportunity to examine them at the courthouse and offer protests before the 1938 tax duplicate is prepared. The Shelby listings will be ready for inspection at the Shelby city hall about the same time, Wolfe promised.

Most In Industrial Sections.

Major increases will be in the closely built-up industrial sections of the county, it was said. Because of the number of tax rates in the county's subdivisions, Wolfe said it will be impossible to predict the extent of tax increases in the rural areas until properties have been checked.

The present value of the 33,000 parcels of real estate in the county is nearly $78,000,000, of which $43,000,000, or more than half, is in Mansfield, and $5,000,000 in Shelby. The figures do not include the value of tangible personal property.

Started last June by regular employes of the county auditor's of-

READY TO ACT

Duffy Agrees to Conference on Alleged Assessments.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy said today he would take any action necessary to halt reported political assessments against civil service employes if specific examples of violations were given to him.

The Ohio League of Women Voters asked the attorney general to enjoin assessments for what it described as a fund to finance the campaign of Gov. Martin L. Davey. Duffy expressed belief that if there were any violation it would not be a criminal matter and that injunction proceedings would not be proper.

Duffy was asked to act in a letter presented by Alfred Bettman of Cincinnati, attorney for the league. He said he would be in Cincinnati Tuesday and would attempt to see Bettman then to obtain more specific information.

MARKETS CLOSE

Stock Exchanges Quit On Good Friday Observance.

NEW YORK —(INS)— The New York stock exchange and all other American Security and commodity exchanges will be closed today in observance of Good Friday.

The New York stock exchange and other security exchanges will reopen on Saturday as will also the Chicago board of trade. All New York commodity exchanges, however, will remain closed until Monday.

SEEKS BAKER MEMORIAL

ROOSEVELT PLANS MORE CURBS FOR U. S. MONOPOLIES

Follows Up "Fireside Chat" With Plan To Tax Government Salaries, Bonds As Aids Push Recovery Program Outlined In Message.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt, pressing his drive for business recovery, said today he would ask congress shortly to strengthen anti-monopoly laws and to permit taxing of the income from future issues of all forms of government salaries and bonds.

He plans two messages to congress on those subjects, he told his press conference.

The president, in his message yesterday asked congress to be "definitely aware" of the need for eliminating exemptions on future bond issues of all kinds of government agencies and for subjecting salaries and wages of all kinds to federal and state income taxes.

State employes now paying a state income tax are exempt from the federal levy and federal employes paying federal tax are exempt from state levies.

The president talked to the large gathering of reporters while his recovery campaign went forward on many fronts.

He told the nation last night that existence of "our democratic institutions" depends on defeating the forces of depression.

No Amendment Needed.

The president expressed belief at the press conference that taxing the income from future issues of bonds of government bodies could be accomplished without a constitutional amendment. He said the constitution permitted taxation of income from whatever source derived without exception.

He said he would endeavor to get from the treasury an estimate on how much money could be raised by the two propositions.

Asked whether his $4,500,000,000 spending and lending recovery-relief program would be drawn into one ominbus bill, the president said that was up to congress. He also said the public would have to wait for his message to know whether he wants the new tax on government bonds and salaries to be enacted this session.

"All the energies of government and business must be directed to increasing the national income, to putting more people into private jobs, to giving security and a feeling of security to all people in all walks of life," Mr. Roosevelt said in a "fireside chat" broadcast.

Congressional leaders sought immediate authorization of the $4,500,000,000 lending and spending program which Mr. Roosevelt recommended.

Federal reserve board officials, following the treasury's release of a $1,392,000,000 old credit, were expected promptly to reduce bank reserve requirements by $750,000,000 in order to provide a $2,150,000,000 expansion of the nation's credit base.

Would Check Trend.

With these activities Mr. Roosevelt expressly hopes to check the downward trend of business and restore the national economic health which he said in his radio speech last night was essential to the preservation of democracy.

"In recommending this program," he said, "I am thinking not only of the immediate economic needs of the people of the nation, but also of their personal liberties—the most precious possession of all Americans."

Democracies have perished and dictatorships sprung up, Mr. Roosevelt continued, under the pressure of unemployment and insecurity and confusion, weakness and lack of leadership in government.

"Not only our future economic soundness," he said, "but the very soundness of our democratic institutions depends on the deter-

House Conferees Warn Senate To Bow To Roosevelt On Taxes

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—House conferees on the "help business" tax bill today prepared to serve an ultimatum on the senate to bow to President Roosevelt's undistributed profits tax policy or let the bill die.

Backed by Democratic members of the house ways and means committee, the house conferees were to carry their ultimatum into today's senate-house conference.

At the same time, the senate conference committee challenged the house conferees to permit a new vote on the issue in the senate and accept the verdict.

President Roosevelt's letter to the conferees, in which he attacked both the senate corporation and capital gains taxes, apparently had created such a split that the battle must be shifted back into congress.

Chairman Doughton, of the house conferees, was ready to go back into the house for a vote on a choice between the house undistributed profits tax and the senate flat corporation tax. He received the backing of the Democratic members of the full ways and means committee in a two-hour conference.

The senate conferees, headed by Senator Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, were fighting for their plan of taxation. It includes an 18 per cent tax on corporations earning over $25,000 a year and a 15 per cent tax on capital gains.

House conferees, with the backing of President Roosevelt, stood by their bill with its corporation tax ranging from 16 to 20 per cent on corporations earning over $25,000 a year and maximum rates of 16 to 30 per cent on capital gains.

'Escalator' Wage-Hour Measure Rushed To House For Debate

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—A new and rigid "escalator" wage and hous bill was before the house today with the support of President Roosevelt's public demand for enactment of labor standards legislation by this congress.

Shortly before he reiterated his desire for passage of a wage and hours bill in his fireside chat last night, the house labor committee ended a four-month deadlock by reporting a bill without differentials for sections or industries, and without a board to relax its standards.

It was virtually certain of the support of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Committee Chairman Mary Norton (D., N. J.) said that the president was "delighted."

The bill, approved in committee by a 14-to-4 vote would provide a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour in three years and a maximum work week of 40 hours in two years for industries in, or "affecting," interstate commerce, with the principal exception of agriculture.

The initial wage "floor" would be 25 cents, increasing five cents an hour each year until the ultimate minimum is reached. The initial "ceiling" would be 44 hours, to decrease in two steps to 40. This arrangement is intended to give industry a chance to adjust itself to the new conditions.

What administration is necessary would be cared for by the labor department. It would determine the industries subject to the bill and would investigate reported violations. The justice department would prosecute violations.

ITALY TO BUILD BIG MERCHANT MARINE BY '48

Program Outlined to Include 44 Liners and 200,000 Tons of New Freighters.

ROME,— (UP) —Italy soon will embark on a 10-year ship building program which will make it one of the world's leading maritime nations.

Decrees have been published calling for the annual construction of 200,000 tons of merchant vessels for a total of 2,000,000 by 1948

The building program, however, is not to be limited only to cargo boats Italy which has built up one of the finest fleets of passenger liners since the war, has announced a second program which is to complement the freight one It calls for the construction of 44 passenger and mail ships for a total of 250,000 tons It will cost approximately $75,000 000.

Nine ships will be built for the Italia Line for a total of 86 000 tons, 13 for the Lloyd Triestina Line for a total tonnage of 82 000 17 for the Tirennia Line for 43 000 tons and 5 for the Adriatica Line for 39,000 tons In addition the Roma and Augustus will be transformed

New Liners Planned.

In a few cases some of the liners in use wil be replaced by new units The smart Vittoria, the pride of Italy's extreme Orient fleet will make way for a new 16,500-ton motorship Increasing competition by the British has dictated this change The Principessa Giovanna and the Principessa Maria, both in the South American service, will be substituted by two new 10,000-ton motorships

On Dec 31, the total tonnage of mechanically propelled ships in the Italion merchant marine totaled 3,174,000 tons, putting it in sixth place after Great Britain, the United States, Japan, Norway and Germany respectively. This is an increase of 1,744,000 tons or 122 per cent over tonnage in 1914

Of the 3,174 000 tons, approximately 1,700 000 tons consist of freighters devoted exclusively to the transport of material and supplies. The rest are passenger and fast mail ships

As in other economic domains, the prime object of Italy's drive for a bigger and better merchant marine is self sufficiency

Italy would like to create a huge fleet of tramp steamers and go into the international transport business. Rome has enviously watched the Scandinavian Countries build up their fleets of freighters to assume leading places among maritime nations Italy makes no secret that it wants to take a cut of this transport business.

Indians' Young Star More Polished, Smarter as He Checks Giants.

WEIRTON, W. Va.—(UP)—American league clubs are going to see a new and different Bob Feller when the championship campaign is opened next Tuesday.

In place of a wild rookie depending entirely on a blazing fast ball, rivals of the Cleveland Indians will find that Feller is a smarter, more polished workman. The Iowa farm boy proved that yesterday at Charleston when he worked a three inning stretch against the New York Giants. New York won the contest 5 to 2, but not at the expense of Feller.

During the three rounds Feller worked the National league champs were able to get only one runner on first base That occurred when Lou Chiozza beat out a bunt in the third for the only hit off Bob

The youngster had perfect control and did not pass a batsman. When he left the box the Indians held a 1 to 0 lead However, Johnny Humphries who followed him to to the hill could not protect the margin Humphries was pounded for six hits and four runs during his stay. The Giants final run came off Bill Zuber.

Cleveland outhit the Giants 8 to 7, but could not bunch the safeties effectively.

The Tribe made one run in the second off the great Carl Hubbell and another in the seventh off the delivery of Bill Lohrman.

Ken Keltner, rookie third baseman, snapped out of a batting slump to pace the Cleveland attack. He made three hits in four trips to the plate.

A Pair of Beauties

The gold trophy with which Mary Cox, 388 West Third street, is posing in the photo above is the No. 1 prize to be awarded in the 12th renewal of the Mansfield Relays to be held at Stadium field a week from tomorrow. The trophy will be presented to the team champion of the high school track and field carnival in which athletes from six states will compete.

Nebraska Track Star to Appear In Relays Race

An exhibition half mile involving the Nebraska scholastic record holder and one of the Ohio conference stars will be one of the features of the 12th Mansfield Relays to be held at Stadium field a week from tomorrow.

Director Harry Mehock revealed today that he has arranged for the appearance of Gilbert Dodds, Nebraska champion now a student at Ashland college, in the exhibition 880-yard run, and Ward Legg, also of Ashland college.

Dodds holds the Nebraska record of 2:02.9, and Legg is one of the outstanding Ohio college half milers.

Plays Lucas In 1938 Debut

The Lexington high baseball club opens its season Tuesday when it invades Lucas for a tussle with Lucas high.

Coach Johnny Rees has several veterans back and expects to place a dangerous club on the diamond. The Minutemen open their home season by entertaining Ontario Thursday

The lads back from last season are Hoy Ryan, catcher, Harry Chalfant and Clarence Luedy, pitchers; Richard Rule, Wayne Queen, Ernie France, Wilbur Wade, infielders, and Kenneth Clever, Lewis Ryan, Donald Lewis, Jack Parker and Morton Huguenard, outfielders.

The complete schedule follows: April 19, Lucas there; April 21, Ontario here; April 26, Butler here; May 3, Johnsville there; May 6, Bellville there; May 10, Lucas here; May 12, Butler there; May 17, Ontario there; May 20, Bellville here. The date for a game with Johnsville at Lexington will be announced later.

REX BILLIARDS DRILL AT FAIRGROUND SATURDAY

The Rex Billiards baseball team will hold a practice session at the Fairground at 1:30 p. m. Saturday. Any players wishing tryouts are asked to report at the park. Players already signed are requested to meet the Billiard parlor at 1 p m.

Relays, Red Streaks Keep Mehock on Run

Smilin' Harry's Confident of Record Entry, But Not So Sure About Saturday's Duel.

WITH one eye on the incoming mail and the other on the Red Streaks, Harry Mehock is just about the busiest man in town right now.

Mehock's interest in the mail need not be explained He, of course, is looking for more entries for next week's renewal of the Mansfield Relays.

Being track coach at Mansfield high school, it is his business to see that the Red Streaks properly prepare themselves for a dual meet Saturday and the big carnival a week later.

Worried About North.

Mehock is all enthused over the possibility of a record entry for this year's Relays, but pessimistic over the victory possibilities of the Red Streaks in Saturday's match with Columbus North at Stadium field.

This week's fair weather has brought out a great improvement in the Red Streaks, and they should be at their peak for the Relays a week hence.

But smilin' Harry expects plenty of trouble in his team's attempt to register its second dual triumph of the new season.

The Polar Bears invade Stadium field Saturday with an all-veteran team, and they showed their mettle on Monday when they trimmed the defending Class B state champions at Upper Arlington.

North showed even more strength than it did last spring in winning the district and city championships.

Depends on Field Men.

Mehock figures that Mansfield's chances to win depend on the performances of the field men North is expected to hold the edge on the track with a host of speedy sprinters and a group of sturdy distance runners in the field.

The dual affair is scheduled to get under way at 2 p m.

Vitt's Job Is to Beat Off Detroit Team, Says Kirksey

United Press Expert Again Picks Yankees to Repeat, With Tigers Second.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK —(UP)— Champions in 1936 and again in 1937, the New York Yankees will be first in the American League again in 1938.

The Yanks will be champs, but this time it will be a "National League finish"—not one of those 19½-game things as in 1936 or 13 game margins as last year.

League Moving Up.

The league is moving up to the Yanks but it won't quite catch them this season unless calamity overtakes the Ruppert Rifles on every front.

Detroit has a better ball club than last year, Cleveland is immeasurably improved and the while league is better balanced and stronger.

Every manager who talks about the Yanks says they can be beaten if they have tough luck, but good ball clubs override tough luck.

The Yanks are well fortified with reserve strength than a year ago. They have more and better pitching. They still have that mighty triumvirate of Joe DiMaggio, who will sign soon, Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey.

The Tigers offered Charley Gehringer, Hank Greenberg and Rudy York in rebuttal against the Yanks' murderers' row. Last year Gehringer won the batting title, Greenberg led the league in runs batted in, and York was the late season home run sensation

On the pitching, Cleveland can match the Yanks' "big two," Lefty Gomez and Charlie Ruffing, with Johnny Allen and Bob Feller. They have power generated by Solters, Trosky and Averill, but beyond that are question marks. What about their infield defense and their long-time failing on the road?

No 'Miracle Man.'

Oscar Vitt will build the groundwork for a great ball club in Cleveland this season but he won't be a "miracle man" and produce a pennant winner. His job is to beat off the Tigers for second place, not to wrest the title from the Yanks.

Detroit, the club which will beat out the Yanks if it's in the books, seems to be plagued by tough luck again this season. Schoolboy Rowe's comeback is uncertain. Tommy Bridges had early trouble with an elbow ailment, and Frank Cruocher's leg broken.

Despite bad luck, Detroit will make quite a race of it. So will Cleveland. They'll both be up there with the Yanks but when the three of them hit the "last, long, mile" the Yanks will have that extra something which will carry them to another pennant.

Picks Indians For Third Spot

Kirkley's American League pennant picks in a nutshell:

1. New York—Still the Yanks, the world champions.

2. Detroit—Power and defense but still a little shy on pitching.

3. Cleveland—Climbing under a new regime but not ready yet.

4. Boston—Tom Yawkey finally gets into the first division.

5. Washington—Zeke Bonura does it with his big bat.

6. Chicago—Tough luck overtook the White Sox.

7. St. Louis—On the upswing under "Gabby" Street.

8. Philadelphia—Connie Mack is in for a tough year.

Kral Fails In All-Events

Gets 530 in 5-Man Event For Aggregate of 1,880.

CHICAGO—(INS)—Indianapolis and St. Louis will send three high-powered lineups into action in the American Bowling Congress tourney tonight in a final drive to tumble the leaders in the big pin classic, which will be concluded Tuesday.

Jerry Kral, Shawano, Wis., failed to overtake Don Beatty, Jackson, Mich., for the all-events lead last night. Kral shot 1,390 in the doubles and singles earlier in the meet. He cut down several difficult splits, but was unable to bunch strikes and totaled 530 for an all-events score of 1,880.

Gene Gagliardi, Mount Vernon, N. Y., who won the singles last year with a 749 total, will roll his minor events today. The easterner totaled 577 with the Hotel Jefferson team of Peoria last night. Gagliardi will team up with Baldwin Jerzyk, Chicago.

Signs Former Navy Champ

Nolan to Pit Clingman Against Claybourn.

A former U. S. Navy champion, Otis Clingman, will make his bow on the Mansfield wrestling mat at the Armory Monday night when the Quality club presents a championship light-heavyweight match between Frankie Talaber of Chicago, the title-holder, and the Great Mephisto, ex-champion.

A machinist's mate on the Tennessee, Clingman, who held the Navy championship from 1925 until 1927, will meet Gentleman Jack Claybourn of Chicago in the semi-final bout.

Clingman's chief weapon is the "pile driver," a hold made famous by the Great Mephisto.

Matchmaker Tim Nolan announces that another bout will be added to the card.

THEATER

BEFORE many months it may be possible for movie struck boys and girls to take a course in picture acting at the larger colleges Professor Welford M Aiken of Ohio State university recently spent considerable time in Hollywood conferring with Clark Gable and other picture celebs on the advisability of establishing screen and dramatic courses in Ohio universities The movement really started in the 100-year-old Muskingum college which is 14 miles from Cadiz, Gable's birthplace. Now the students of Ohio State, John Carroll and Western Reserve are campaigning for the courses.

"In Old Chicago."

When Mother O'Leary's historical cow kicked over the lantern which started the great Chicago fire, it not only started Chicago toward new skyscraper heights, but provided the theme for one of Darryl Zanuck's most ambitious pictures, "In Old Chicago" The film, made on epical proportions, opens at the Ohio theater tomorrow for a five day run Alice Brady, who plays Mother O'Leary, won an academy award last month for her performance in this picture. The role played by Alice Faye was originally assigned to Jean Harlow, but death changed that and gave the acting plum to Miss Faye. Tyrone Power and Don Ameche play the brothers O'Leary, both in love with the "play actress" to their mother's dislike. The scenes of the Chicago fire are said to rank with the San Francisco earthquake and fire in the picture of that title In the supporting cast are such players as Phyllis Brooks, Andy Devine, Brian Donlevy, Sidney Blackmer, and others.

Prosaic Star.

Frances Lederer, the colorful Czechoslovakian who plays continental lovers in that fascinating manner, is the most unromantic star off the screen, doing the things that are expected from prosaic, matter of fact professors or business men. He is one of the most ardent supporters of world peace in America, and all but impoverishes himself by spending his income to further it. And besides that he's interested in walnuts and the marketing of the California crop each year But you'd never guess that from his smooth performance of Lanyard, in "The Lone Wolf In Paris," which is showing at the Madison. Frances Drake plays opposite him as the princess in distress

Gallant Adventure.

The men who made the independence of Texas possible are the characters in "Heroes of the Alamo," which the Majestic presents today and Saturday. There is Davy Crockett (Lane Chandler), the fighting and courageous Irishman, backwoodsman, statesman who died at the Alamo; Stephen Austin, founder of Texas, James Bowie, great frontiersman; Sam Houston, the gallant Virginian who was senator and governor of Tennessee, who led the fight for Texas freedom, and many others who are familiar to every school boy The second feature at the Majestic is "Boy of the Streets" with Jackie Cooper and a cast of popular character players

No. 1 Attraction.

"The Old Barn Dance," musical Western starring Gene Autry, and showing at the Ritz, brings that popular star (he's number one Western attraction at the box office) in the type of thing he does best. It also provides a story that is refreshingly different in theme It moves around a gang of racketeers who make a business of selling tractors to farmers on the payment plan, and taking their land away from them when they fail to make a payment. The Colorado Hillbillies provide the instrumental music, while Autry and his pal, Smiley Burnette, sing several cowboy numbers. "The Lady Escapes" with Michael Whalen and Gloria Stuart, is also offered on the bill.

Two Important Reasons Why Gas Is The Choice At Cooking School —
1 Gas IS THE FINEST MODERN KITCHEN FUEL
2 Gas IS BY FAR THE MOST POPULAR KITCHEN FUEL
"You Can Get Cooking School Results In Your Own Kitchen With a Tappan Gas Range" Says Miss Ruth Chambers Cooking School Lecturer

Miss Chambers praises the performance of the Tappan Gas Range being used in The News-Journal Food Fashion Revue for the part it plays in turning out such delicious good things to eat. "The Tappan Gas Range," says Miss Chambers, "has an important part to play and it is doing its job splendidly. You know, I'm sold on gas because of its cleanliness, flexibility and because it is dependable and so easy to use. The housewife who is so fortunate as to have a modern Tappan gas range in her kitchen has a big advantage. Her cooking results are certain to be more accurate because of its many modern improvements."

Thank you, Miss Chambers. Thousands of housewives who have modern Tappan gas ranges in their own kitchens will agree.

You have seen the famous Tappan gas range used during cooking school demonstrations. You've heard about its many important features such as enlarged divided cooking top, "Visualite" over-sized oven, Flexo-speed oven burner, giant size top burners with simmer-set valves, CleanQuick smokeless broiler and others. See the new models now at The Gas Company.

SWISS BARTER WITH COUPONS TO SPUR TRADE

'Muscle Standard' Base For System as Tradesmen Work With Cash Lacking.

(By United Press)

GENEVA—Several thousand merchants, tradesmen and professional workers are trying to stimulate trade in Switzerland today by the use of barter coupons, based on the "Muscle Standard," as a substitute for money

Known as the Bon Troc, these coupons enable people with skill, muscle or merchandise to do a good business with other people who have skill, muscle or merchandise, but not much money to spend It is the old system of barter revised so that the dentist can barter with the shoemaker without necessarily having to plug the shoemaker's teeth.

In an interview with the United Press, Paul Finsterwald, owner of a stationery shop and a director of the Bon Troc association of Geneva, explained the system and sold this correspondent a barter coupon for 85 Swiss centimes.

Need Not Be Member.

"Even though you aren't a member of the association," Finsterwald said, "you can get one Swiss franc's worth of muscle, skill or merchandise from one of our members. As you see, it is interchangeable for cash, of which most of us are short, at a loss of 15 centimes worth of skill, muscle or merchandise

"The idea is simple. I have merchandise, the dentist has skill, the laborer has muscle and we are all short of money. How can we exchange all these different values? Direct barter not being general enough the coupon principle was evolved The dentist, for example, goes to the cobbler for a half-soling and pays with a coupon. The cobbler, not wanting dental treatment, can use the coupon to obtain trout from the fishmonger Somebody who finally gets the coupon will go to the dentist to have a tooth pulled.

"In Geneva, we have a slightly different coupon from those in circulation in other parts of Switzerland," Finsterwald explained. "Here, possessors of coupons must take them to our office and pay 1 per cent tax on them at the end of each month This little tax encourages spending as nobody wants to get caught with a 1 per cent loss each month."

NOT DRINKERS

Accidents Blamed On Motorists Who 'Don't Know How to Drive.'

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— The main cause of highway accidents, says State Police Commissioner P. W. Foote, is 'not the drunken driver or the reckless driver," but the motorist who doesn't know how to drive. At least half the licensed drivers in Pennsylvania belong in this class, he believes.

NEW BUILDING TOTALS $10,000

Permits Issued For $7,000 Home, $3,000 Gas Station Addition.

Five building permits with a total estimated valuation of $10,120 were issued at city hall yesterday.

A permit taken out by Robert Poth calls for the erection of a two-story brick veneer residence at 147 Wolfe avenue at a cost of $7,000, while a permit issued to C Hartenfels, 100 Park avenue west, provides for a $3,000 cement block wash rack addition to his filling station. Other permits went to C. Zents, 153 Newman street, for an addition to his home at a cost of $60, Miss Maggie McClure, 132 East Fifth street, for a $10 garage, and Mrs Laura Case, 101 Orchard street, for a garage at $50.

TOWNSEND SET TO GO TO JAIL

Says He'll Leave Frisco This Week For Washington.

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Dr. Francis E. Townsend, old age pension movement founder, has said he would go to Washington late this week to begin serving a 30-day jail sentence for contempt of a congressional committee.

The U. S. supreme court has declined to review a lower court decision sentencing him to jail and fining him $100. He walked out of a house of representatives committee hearing in May, 1936, while being questioned about his $200-a-month pension plan.

Townsend said he would not pay the fine.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Brighten the Corner. By Harold Gray

GEE-E-E! ISN'T IT SWELL? JUST LIKE TH' PITCHERS IN TH' MAGAZINES- ALL CLEAN AN' WHITE AN' SHINY!
AND IT'S AS GOOD AS IT LOOKS, ANNIE-
IT MAKES THE REST OF THE KITCHEN LOOK TERRIBLY OLD AND SHABBY- I DIDN'T NOTICE BEFORE HOW DINGY THE WALLS ARE-SMOKE AND SOOT FROM THE OLD COOK STOVE MADE THEM THAT WAY-
WHILE WE WERE USING KEROSENE LAMPS IT WAS NEVER BRIGHT ENOUGH TO TELL WHAT COLOR THE WALLS WERE-WELL, THESE ELECTRIC LIGHTS CERTAINLY SHOW UP EVERY CRACK AND STREAK AND COBWEB-GLAD OF IT- WITH NO MORE WOOD TO CUT I'D FIGGERED I WAS OUT OF A JOB AND I'D HAVE TO BE MOVING ON-- BUT MAYBE I CAN JUSTIFY MY EXISTENCE HERE A MITE LONGER NOW-

THE NEBBS—The Build-Up. By Sol Hess

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH ME NOW, MUGGINS- DON'T I EVER LOOK RIGHT TO YOU?
CERTAINLY, SIR, BUT YOU MIGHT AS WELL BE NICE AS CARELESS, SIR- YOU'LL PARDON ME BUT YOU'RE NOT THE TYPE WHO CAN DRESS CARELESSLY, SIR
I 'AVE THIS FELLOW NEBB A BIT FLUSTRATED- 'E DON'T KNOW A THING ABOUT CONVENTIONALITY OF 'OUSE MANNERS AND DRESSING, SO I TAKE PLENTY OF LIBERTY WITH 'IM- I AM PRIMING 'IM UP FOR A WHOLESOME TIP
THIS GUY MUGGINS IS GETTING INTO MY HAIR- I'VE LIVED A LONG TIME LOOKING AFTER MYSELF WITHOUT SOMEONE PATTING MY NECKTIES AND PICKING IMAGINARY THREADS OFF MY COAT
YOU SHOULD GET MUGGINS TO DRINK YOUR COFFEE FOR YOU- EVERY TIME YOU TAKE A SIP, I FEEL LIKE RUNNING FOR THE CYCLONE CELLAR

ONE KILLED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Driver Injured in Accident at Erie Crossing; Fatality 5th of Year in County.

The crossing is only protected from 5:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. and is one of the five grades within the city at which city officials recently asked the state utilities commission for full-time protection.

Upon the recommendations of W. E. Harrington, an inspector for the commission, the state granted the railroads 90 days to provide full-time protection at the five grades. This action was taken three weeks ago.

Mendoza, a native of Mexico, had lived in Mansfield for 12 years. Besides his wife, Victoria, he is survived by other relatives in Mexico.

The body will remain at home until Monday when funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. at St. Peter's Catholic church, with Rev. R. C. Goebel officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield Catholic cemetery.

taken from the oven, were the envy of every woman. That form of cooking meat, advocated by experts everywhere, is still looked upon by the average housewife as "a good trick if it works." Miss Chambers recommends it strongly for preserving the natural flavor of the meat and because it shrinks the meat less than rapid cooking.

The News-Journal school this year was made possible through the co-operation of Mansfield merchants and concerns selling through Mansfield merchants, and of the Live Stock and Meat board of Chicago of which Miss Chambers is a member.

Pamphlets containing, not only the recipes for the day, but many others, were given to every woman who attended. A helpful feature this year was the service of eight girl ushers in caring for small children in the lower lobby of the theater, while the school was in session.

Old Pennies Lead To Ashland Man's Arrest In Theft

Possession of too many Indian head pennies, which have been out of circulation for several years, resulted today in a $200 fine and a 30-day workhouse sentence for Vic VanTilburg, 40, of Ashland.

Arrested Tuesday by Ashland police after he had disposed of 695 of the pennies in Mansfield, VanTilburg was brought here for identification by employes of two banks and a cafe where he had presented the coins.

He pleaded guilty to a petit larceny charge in Ashland common pleas court yesterday and was sentenced by Judge C. C. Chapman. He will serve the workhouse term at Toledo.

VanTilburg admitted obtaining 1,000 of the old pennies from an Ashland store March 30 when coins and merchandise valued at $50 were taken.

VanTilburg was taken into custody at Ashland after employes of Schmutzler's cafe, who had been warned by police to watch for him, reported he had submitted 50 of the pennies to them. A description of him had been broadcast to the Mansfield police station by radio.

VanTilburg was identified by H. A. McElhaney, teller at the Richland Trust company, and Ralph LeMunyon, teller at the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank. He passerd 245 of the stolen pennies at the Richland Trust company, while LeMunyon said he had handled $4 worth of them.

RE-APPRAISAL TO HIKE TAXES

$50,000 Increase in Revenue Expected From Boost in Real Estate Values.

fice, the re-appraisal is expected to cost only $8,000 as compared with $40,000 six years ago, Wolfe pointed out.

Most of the cost this year is involved in the re-appraisal of the county's 70 industrial properties by engineers of the J. M. Clemenshaw company, Cleveland, the auditor added. From two to six agents of the firm have been working in the county for the past several months.

"Use of county employes for the residence and farm re-appraisal," Wolfe said, "not only will result in a savings of around $32,000, but will bring about a more uniform result where the same experienced appraisers are checking property in all parts of the county."

"The process this year is really an equalization of values due to changes in the price of real estate. Some sections will be higher and some slightly lower, corresponding to the shifting of values in the past six years."

tions for a part of the positions.

He explained that it had not been definitely decided what positions would be competitive and which non-competitive.

"We have a tremendous task ahead," Huber said, "and it may be six months before we have the job completed."

He pointed out that the commission will set a date for the filing of applications and the date for examinations at a later meeting. Huber said the commission had not set up the requirements for the respective positions but that suitable examinations for the particular type of employment would be drafted to conform with state civil service code and the city ordinances.

Dr. L. C. Benedict, a member of the commission, said the action in extending civil service to cover all city employes was taken because the board was operating under the state civil service code and that for the past three years they have been scored by state examiners for failure to classify all city employes.

Agitation for the extension of civil service was started last July when the Mansfield Trades council petitioned city council to take action. After a special council committee had studied the question for five months, the problem was turned over to the civil service commission.

HOLD SERVICES

Shelby Churches to Present Easter Cantatas Sunday.

SHELBY—Special Easter cantatas and annual Sunrise services will be held Sunday morning and evening at the Shelby churches by their choirs and young people's organizations.

A short dramatization, "Near the Cross," will be given at 6:30 a. m. at the United Brethren church by the young people's society.

Jeannette Dowds, Iona Johnston, John Purdy and James Roberts will compose the quartet which will furnish the special music for the "Maker of the Crosses" program to be given at the same time at the First Methodist church. The choirs of the First Lutheran and Firch Church of Christ will present cantatas for their annual 6:30 a. m. services.

The choir of the First Presbyterian church will present its annual service during the regular morning program at 10:45 a. m. Solists will include Mrs. F. H. Winians, Mrs. Boyd Smith, Mrs. Roy Van Wagner and Misses Ella Margaret Smith and Kathryn Hopwood. Other Easter programs will be given at the First Evangelical and Reformed, Nazarene, First Baptist and Most Pure Heart of Mary churches.

FILES DEMURRER

Defendant in Coal Suit Seeks to Forestall Injunction.

In a move to forestall the possible granting of an injunction to prevent his firm from using the name of Estes Coal company, Henry J. Carew today had filed a demurrer in common pleas court to a suit brought against him four days ago by the Estes Coal and Ice, Inc.

Carew, as a partner in the business firm which was named defendant in the suit, contends in his answer that the plaintiff's petition lists insufficient cause for action and that there is no assurance the defendants will continue the acts complained about in the suit.

The original action seeks to restrain Clarence Estes and Carew from using the name "Estes" for business purposes, charging that the two similar names are confusing to the public.

STALIN ORDERS ARMY INCREASE

London Hears Dictator Wants 2,500,000 In Uniform.

LONDON —(INS)— The London Daily Express reported from War-saw that Dictator Josef Stalin has ordered Russia's red army increased from 1,300,000 to 2,500,000 effective by the end of the year.

The great Soviet rearmament program, said the report, is allegedly Stalin's reply to Chancellor Hitler's annexation of Austria and insurgent advances in Spain.

The Soviet air force has been ordered increased from 6,000 to 10,000 first-line planes, the dispatch stated.

PLANS CLINIC FOR EMPLOYERS ON STATE LAW

C. of C. Session Next Week to Explain Operations of Unemployment Act.

Problems relating to operations under the Ohio Unemployment Compensation law will be explained at a clinic for employers Wednesday night, April 20 at the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms, Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager, announced today.

The clinic, sponsored by the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with the Ohio Chamber of Commerce Social Security service, will "explain to employers just what their obligations and privileges are under the new law," Williams said.

3 Speakers On Program.

Speakers representing the Social Security service of the Ohio chamber at the forum will be Arch D. Schultz of Columbus, director of research, and Paul J. Daugherty, analyst, and C. E. Hummel, Pittsburgh, social security service accountant for Westinghouse.

The principal discussion will be devoted to computing "average weekly wages" for the purposes of accumulating a "waiting period" during partial unemployment, Williams explained.

"We feel that there are hundreds of employers in the Mansfield district who are unaware of their obligations under the unemployment program," Williams added. "The purpose of the meeting is to clarify the points in question and all employers in Mansfield and the surrounding territory are invited to attend the session."

T. B. INCREASES

Two More New Cases Boosts Year's Total to 21.

The number of new cases of tuberculosis discovered in Richland county this year increased to 21 today as two more cases were reported at the monthly diagnostic clinic conducted under the supervision of Dr. T. L. Bliss of Akron.

Of the 36 suspects examined, two showed positive tests while 33 proved negative. Diagnosis of one suspect was deferred for two weeks, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner said. Of the 24 suspects examined from the city, 23 proved negative and one positive case was found, while four negative tests and one positive were reported from the county. All six suspects from Shelby showed a negative test.

Dr. Rehder said that health department records showed that 149 persons have been examined at diagnostic clinic since Jan. 1.

DO YOU REMEMBER PICTURES AND CHARACTERS? HERE'S REAL TEST

Movie fans, here's your opportunity to show how well you remember pictures and characters—and to win some free theater tickets.

Jackie Cooper, who has been one of the most popular of child stars for a number of years—he's growing up now—comes to the Majestic theater today and Saturday in "Boy of the Streets," a problem picture dealing with the present day juvenile delinquencies.

The picture shows eight poses of Jackie, and the trick is to identify him in each of the characters, as for instance, No. 1 is young Cooper in the current picture "Boy of the Streets."

Your stunt is to identify the other seven, and we'll give you a few hints because the answers aren't easy. In No. 2 he was associated with another famous boy star with a definite English accent; No. 3 saw Jackie acting in his greatest picture and with a famous and beloved character actor; No 4 was the name of a famous district in New York City; No 5 had a circus background with the same star that was associated with him in number three.

No. 6 saw him playing a famous newspaper cartoon character; in No. 7 he was the world's best known bad boy; and in No. 8 he had a chance to follow a small boy's dream of adventure and pirates.

All answers must be in the News-Journal office, addressed to the Jackie Cooper Contest editor, by midnight Sunday Forty-eight free tickets to the Majestic will be awarded winners.

AUTHOR TELLS OF RADIUM AND ITS IMPORTANCE

Book Heading Library's New Fiction Story of Madame Curie's Discovery.

The story of Madame Curie's discovery and its importance to humanity is told in "Radium", a novel by Rudolph Brunngarber, translated from German by Eden and Cedar Paul. Besides the scientific studies, Brunngarber includes the financial manipulations involved in the struggle for monopoly of the rare substance, and the daring experiments to demonstrate its curative powers. "Radium", is fictionalized history. The volume heads the list of new fiction at the Mansfield Public library this week.

Albert Halper's new novel, "The Chute", pictures the life of employes in a large mail order house in Chicago. His portrayal of the loyalty within a Jewish family, the Sussmans, who live on Chicago's West Side, is particularly sympathetic.

"The Woman At The Door" by Warwick Deeping takes up the problem of the aftermath of a crime. Rachel Ballard shoots her husband in self-defense and when she seeks shelter with John Luce, a kind neighbor, he refuses to let her give herself up to justice. The discovery that they love each other sends them into exile in Europe.

Four other novels were added to the library shelves this week. They are "Death On The Nile" by Christie; "Mavericks Of The Plains" by Drago, "Hunted" by Gibbs, and "Valley of Hunted Men" by Lehman.

3 Biographies Added.

Three interesting biographies are among the new non-fiction; "Stanley Baldwin: Man or Miracle", by Bechhofer Roberts; "James Mathews Barrie" by James A. Roy; and "Cleopatra", by Emil Ludwig. The first one tells the story of Baldwin's rise to political power, and the second constructs a complete and life-like picture of Barrie the man and the writer. The third is devoted to the psychological life of Cleopatra and her three Roman lovers. The biographer uses monologues to portray the thoughts and emotions of a woman who was a remarkable mother, lover, warrior and queen.

An interesting sidelight on the early days in Ohio is furnished by Charles Van Tassel's report of "Charles Dickens' 1842 Visit To Ohio". A poetic commentary on present day government and social problems is "U. S. I." by Rukeyser. There is a wide range of subject matter, going from poems on silicosis to the war in Spain.

Two books that are currently popular have been added to the John Baxter Black Memorial collection. They are Charles Allen Smart's "R. F. D" in which a small farm near Chillicothe is a locale, and "They Broke The Prairie" by Ernest Calkins, an account of the settlement of the upper Mississippi Valley by religious and educational pioneers.

Other non-fiction this week is "Peasant Costumes in Europe" by Mann; "Costume Book", Nesfield; "Ground Water", Tolman, "Treasures in the Earth", Fitzhugh; "Story of the Gems", Whitlock; "Rise of American Oil", Fanning; "Alcohol: One Man's Meat", by Strecker and Chambers; "Transformer Principles and Practice", Gibbs; "Romance of Tea", Ukers; and "Bed of Neuroses", by Gibbs.

Personality Plus Pulchritude

Selected on the basis of her beauty, leadership, scholarship and character, pretty Marie Cooley, senior at Utah State Agricultural college at Logan, was chosen "Miss Personality of 1938" by her classmates.

SUIT DISMISSED

Attorneys Drop Action After They Receive Counsel Fees.

A suit for $150 counsel fees filed in common pleas court four days ago by Attys. Joseph A. Bayer and C. F. Creedman was dismissed yesterday after Clarence Stillwagon, 17 Lida street, defendant in the case, paid the plaintiffs the amount they sought and the court costs.

Stillwagon, a pumper in the city waterworks department, owed the money on a note held by the two attorneys who represented him in a recent suit against the city to recover his job, the petition said.

NO MORE WASHDAY SLAVERY

With this Amazing 15-Minute Soaking Soap

Gets White Clothes 4 to 5 Shades Whiter Without Scrubbing or Boiling—Yet SAFE for Washable Colors, Hands

NOW make "blue Mondays" a thing of the past. Put an end to tedious rubbing and scrubbing—and the nagging washday backaches they so frequently bring.

For here is a new "no-scrub" soap that actually soaks out dirt in 15 minutes. A faster soap that brings white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter—in 25% to 40% less time.

This new creation is called OXYDOL—and does these four amazing things:—

(1) Soaks out dirt in 15 minutes. No scrubbing, no boiling. Even "grimy" collar bands come clean with a quick rub. (2) Gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter, proved by scientific Tintometer tests. (3) Cuts washing time 25% to 40%, in tub or machine. Yet so safe that every washable color comes out sparkling, brilliant, fresh!

Oxydol is economical, too. Tests show that a single cup of it makes as much brisk, lively suds as three cupfuls of other soaps tested. So it's a money-saver, too.

In your own interest, try OXYDOL without delay. See for yourself how much time and labor it saves. At all dealers. For utmost economy and convenience, ask for the "Giant Size." Procter & Gamble.

Wants More Billions To Spend.

EXCEPT as they revealed his determination to proceed along lines of heavy government spending in an effort to bring national recovery, President Roosevelt's message to congress yesterday and his fireside chat last night failed to offer any new material, or to give encouragement to those who have recognized the fallacies of Rooseveltian theories.

While casual reference to expenditure of billions of dollars of public money is no longer as startling as it was a few years ago, it is not yet possible to consider the ambitious spending program outlined by the president, with its large increases over earlier estimates, without wondering where it will all end.

Earlier spending of billions, with identically the same intent and following similar representations by the president, not only failed to bring national recovery but finds unemployment conditions worse than at any previous time.

Aside from the truism that sound recovery is dependent on increase in the total national income, with consequent expansion of individual purchasing power, and a plea for co-operation of business—and all groups—in encouragement of private employment, President Roosevelt's message and radio talk served more as reiteration of his own ideology than as a basis for practicable action.

If, by some magic process, limitless billions of dollars could be made available without any burden of taxation, and if what is termed "human nature" could be remade over night, some such Utopian proposals as those made by the president might be regarded as applicable to the present situation.

It is unfortunate that President Roosevelt, in his position of leadership at this crucial time, has apparently been unable to grasp the fact that he himself, and some of his policies which have already been rejected by congress, have served to weaken public confidence and bring about a feeling of uncertainty that has retarded national recovery, despite tremendous expenditures of public money by the federal government.

It may well be regretted that so little encouragement toward substantial improvement can be found in the president's message or in his radio talk.

Alliance Endangered By Fund Shortage.

SOME IDEA of the financial plight in which cities may find themselves as a result of failure to provide sufficient funds to meet the costs of operating essential public services, is found in the experience of Alliance, Stark county city with a population of around 25,000.

With police and fire departments cut to six members each, as an economy measure, it was necessary this week in Alliance to call upon volunteers to aid firemen in fighting a downtown fire which threatened adjoining property.

Continuance of meager municipal expenditures in Alliance is forecast as a result of recent defeat of a proposed 5-mill tax levy intended to augment operating funds and provide money to meet the city's share of several WPA projects.

Alliance is not unlike a number of other Ohio cities, which have been seriously hampered in normal operation by reduction of taxes which resulted from adoption of the 10-mill limitation on real estate, without substitution of adequate means of bridging the gap.

With realization of an already excessive tax burden, due to federal extravagance and state wastefulness of public money, there has been an inclination among many voters in the past few years to turn thumbs down on any special tax levy or bond issue proposal, regardless of merit.

As is the case in Alliance, such an attitude can work serious detriment to a city and is likely, in the long run, to prove much more costly than the extra taxes would be.

Mansfield may well profit from the experience of other cities, in seeing to it that reasonable future needs are anticipated in time to make sure that sufficient money will be available to meet them—so that there will at no time be requirement for dangerous curtailment of essential public services.

Meeting the Queen.

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY, new American ambassador to Great Britain, seems to be infusing more American spirit into the job than usual. He has stopped presenting American social aspirants by wholesale at the British court.

In a letter to Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the ambassador condemns as undemocratic the selection of young ladies for court presentation from a long list of candidates he has never seen. He intends, he says, to confine such honors to the families of American public officials and other Americans living in England.

The change meets the approval of Senator Lodge, who replies: "I think this is a good decision and that you have adopted a truly democratic policy." He knows how ambassadors in London have been plagued by this form of social graft.

Light From Ceiling.

HOUSE furniture and interior decoration are changing rapidly nowadays, and so is lighting. A business writer reports an interesting novelty found in a Toledo glass factory—ceiling mirrors. These mirrors, he says, are made of a new, translucent material which glows when the illumination is turned on behind it. It makes a pleasant, diffused light through the room, whose origin is not apparent. And by daylight the room seems to be twice the usual height.

So many novelties are now under experiment, or ready for production, that it is safe to say modern houses, outside and inside, will be very different a few years from now.

It may be a mere coincidence, but the recession seems to have come along just when sale of the book on "How to Influence People" was at its height.

At least one psychologist says a person can think better with his feet propped up on a desk—which should popularize him among office holders.

There is a growing suspicion that some college boys regard the pigskin as more important than the sheepskin.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

SUPPOSE New Dealers win in Democratic primaries this year? (A survey "shows" that they will, in the majority of instances.) Will the next session of congress then be more willing to adopt Roosevelt measures? And will the president then be in a more powerful position to "choose" his successor as a Democratic candidate?

It is probable, in that case, that the 1939 congress may enact the most important of the Rooseveltian measures — and with less modification than if they had been passed this year.

VOTER'S PLAINT.

Says a letter from "A Voter":

"I am a Democrat. I voted for President Roosevelt twice. I not only believe in his measures, but think he does not go far enough. We must keep up with the changing times, if we are to survive. To go back, or to stand still would be disastrous.

"Yet the rank and file of the Democratic politicians are blind. For example, the representative to congress from my district is a Democrat. He defeated a Republican in the last election. I voted for him because I wanted a congressman who would support President Roosevelt.

"This man, however, once in office, has attacked and voted against everything that the president proposes, even the minor things.

"I contend that the voters have been cheated. But what is the remedy Defeat this man in the primary I hope so!"

OLD CARS.

Letters recently have been crowded out of this column, thus today we are cleaning up the old correspondence. Here is one, received in the past month, which deserves attention. It is from David Lerner, New Castle, Pa.:

"You are no doubt aware of the propaganda being carried on by automobile dealers for the purpose of destroying automobiles above a certain age...

"If these gentlemen would condescend to to enter an auto wrecking yard, they would learn that it is not the old cars which are smashed up more often. That some cars are not safe on the highways everyone realizes. But the answer to this is careful state inspection of all automobiles about twice a year and strict enforcement of a law that every owner must see that his car is safe when he ventures on the highways.

"Moreover, it would be economic waste to destroy automobiles which are safe and dependable. Poor people, little concerned with style, will lose the opportunity for inexpensive transportation."

Have automobile manufacturers and dealers or any other readers, additional ideas on this?

SECURITY AND LIBERTY.

The democratic world is striving these days to find a formula for security that does not at the same time destroy liberty.

"What would give people SECURITY, EQUALITY and LIBERTY?

"To get security we should protect the private ownership of personal property; but control the nation's economic machinery so as to produce jobs and plenty for all. Should give agriculture a fair profit on what it sells. Provide ample pensions for old people, and see that men over 45 were not denied work. Have a military force sufficient to command the world's respect.

"To get equality, the government should pay for vocational education for all youth. Should given women the same pay and chance for advancement as men. Allow everyone to vote regardless of race and without paying a poll tax.

"To get liberty, people should have religious freedom and be allowed to worship, or not, as they pleased; and to follow the dictates of their natural desires, where these do not infringe on the rights of others.

"To provide all these and hold our own in this warring world would require more wealth. Which could be obtained by increased production through planning. We have enough raw materials, enough factories, enough men. Why not put them to work?

"Some people blame 'uncertainty,' for present conditions. What is certain in this world? Will it be the faltering steps of timid men, or the determined steps of courageous ones, which will lead to recovery?

"To obtain their aims must men always organize and fight?"

THE INVENTIVE MIND

No Prosecutor for TVA Inquiry

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — The TVA investigation will be unique among the outstanding congressional inquiries of the last quarter of a century in one particular —it will not have a prosecutor!

Some senator or member of the house among the ten who compose the committee may decide, after the thing gets started, to take a real interest and try to get somewhere with it. There is no such promise to those who know the men from looking over their names, but surprises do happen.

But in the past it has been the custom, when a committee was appointed to delve into something, to pick out the particular man who had been doing most of the crusading on that subject, and put him on the investigating body, if not as chairman, then at least as a member.

For example, after Senator Burton K. Wheeler had been attacking Harry M. Daugherty, then attorney general under President Harding, bitterly for weeks, and virtually forced the appointment of an investigating committee, he was appointed on it. He was not made chairman, for the simple reason that he was a Democratic senator, and the Republicans were in control of the senate, so that all chairmanships were given to Republicans.

BUT—everybody knew when Wheeler was appointed that he would really run the committee, and he did Every one knew that Smith Wildman Brookhart, who was named chairman, would not be able to stop Wheeler even if he wanted to do so. But every one knew also that Brookhart was more of a radical and a crusader at heart even than Wheeler was, so he would be delighted to give Wheeler free rein. As a matter of fact, it got to be called the "Wheeler committee."

When Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, father of the present senator of the same name, finally got his resolution for investigation of the lease of Teapot Dome passed, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, who agreed with La Follette about it and was known as a relentless prosecutor, was named chairman.

Walsh made history, digging in for the carefully hidden trails long after nearly every one but Walsh and La Follette was persuaded that actually the whole thing was all right.

THIS has always been the rule in both houses, though frequently committee chairmen, especially in the house of representatives, have stolen the thunder of the special prosecutors simply because they out-prosecuted them. House members have a little harder time getting publicity than senators, and hence are less loath to do battle when they get a chance for the front pages.

If the normal course of procedure had been followed in the TVA investigation, Senator H. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, would have been named as one of the Republican members. He would not have been put at the head of the senate list, because he is a Republican, but certainly he would have been put on the committee, because he is the one senator who has been exhaustively investigating the situation and studying the subject for more than a year — knows more about it than any one else in either house in all probability.

Similarly, in the house, Representative Andrew J. May, of Kentucky, would have been appointed, for he has been a crusader on the whole TVA ever since the issue became controversial. There are two reasons why this procedure is and has been sound policy. One is that it insures members of the investigating committee who know something about it and are interested. The other is that it insures real probing because men of the prosecutor type will keep trying to get the unpleasant facts.

Health Advice

Paralysis a Constant Menace.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

Recently the nation celebrated the president's birthday. As you know, this series of money-making parties is held each year to promote the fight against infantile paralysis. Much has been accomplished to this end by the generous contributions to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

No one can question the importance of continued research in this field. Scientific research costs money. During the past two years more than a quarter of a million dollars has been granted to a group of American universities for the work. Out of this vital activity discoveries have already been developed. But continued grants to the laboratories for experimental work is necessary if there are to be further strides teoward the conquering of this disease.

Every parent dreads the very name of infantile paralysis. Many of us recall the fear we had for our youngsters during recent epidemics. Yet, we are prone to forget the dangers of the disease when there are no marked outbreaks of it. Sad to say, we seem to forget about those who have been permanently crippled by it.

Do not be coaxed to believe, either, that infantile paralysis is under control. On the contrary, it is ever on the increase. As a matter of fact, epidemics have been increasing in frequency and in severity.

Gives No Warning.

This terrible ailment strikes without warning. As a rule, it attacks children under 10 years of age, but no age is immune to its ravages. Many an adult has suffered its effects.

Not only is there a threat to life, but many of the cases result in partial and permanent deformity. The complications of the disease are not so severe as in former years, but the menace is always present.

These facts indicate how necessary it is to continue to make possible the research work in infantile paralysis. This must continue until a sure means of combatting the disease is known. At the moment we do not even know for sure how the disease is transmitted. Of course, no method of prevention has been discovered.

Many of the deforming effects of the disease can be dealt with successfully. We pray there will shortly be found means for its prevention and cure. Until that happy day we must avail ourselves of all that medical science has learned.

God, Help Me Leave My Tomb!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

VERY DIM it was, in that place of death where the cypress trees spilled their blood-dark shadows on the lonely path.

Very still it was, with no leaf stirring, and the lilies drooping in their pale, blurred files.

Silent, too, lay many in Jerusalem...from proud Pilate's palace to the pallets of the poor* . . . shocked and sickened by the thing which had been done.

Young Jesus dead! They, too, wished they had died! So, as the first light brightened in the east, and the small chorus of the birds began, a muffled woman entered through the gate. A slender, lovely woman who walked wearily, and carried on her arm a basket filled with linen and rare spice..

Then, as she passed, the sunlight widened till it fell upon the tomb where they had laid the Lord . . . and after that had sealed the entrance with a stone. and set two Roman soldiers to keep guard, lest even yet, the angry Hebrews rise.

Slowly the woman came, half blind with grief. But, as she bent, her startled eyes beheld—

The stone was gone! Gone, too, the figure which had lain inside!

Then, terrified, she ran to bring His friends. But when they came, they also saw the same . . . the empty tomb . . . the napkin which had been around his head . . . and, rolled aside and spangled now with dawn, the stone which Rome had set to seal the dead!

And then the men fled, angered and dismayed. But Mary, who had loved him . . . Mary stayed. And weeping, she knelt and once more looked within. And saw there, angels, shining white, who said—

"My Lord—they're taken Him!" poor Mary cried—

"Why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou?"

Then, suddenly, felt Someone at her side. And, turning saw a Man who heard her tale, then smiled and, tenderly as one would soothe a child, leaned down and whispered—

"Mary!"

TWO THOUSAND years ago since that first Resurrection morn. And always we have heard the same sweet message drawn—of life reborn. And yet there seems to me another meaning in that Easter dawn. Not just the wonder that Christ, having died, should live again. But this far greater marvel—that He CHOSE to live. That, having found at last release from pain, HE SHOULD BE WILLING TO FACE LIFE AGAIN.

It's life that's hard to take, not death. To die—that's easy. One can always make a tomb. Just turn away, and wrap yourself in fear, or hate, or gloom. You dread the strife? Then there's a perfect hide-away from life! And you're as dead as though six feet of earth lay on your head.

But Christ not only rose—
He chose to rise.
He chose to leave
Both tomb and Paradise—
And so, taught man the way
To dare to live again
On Easter day.

Dear Brother Jesus,
Hear me as I pray!
Help me to put
My selfish tombs away,
And risk, with You,
New Life,
New Joy,
New Trials,
This Easter Day!

Timely Editorial

Those Hidden Taxes.

Students at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute who tried to make practical application of their studies of taxation have been discouraged by unimaginative trades people of the college town, Troy, N. Y. After examining a lot of charts and reading laws and books on political economy, the young people thought up a plan to teach the public the meaning of concealed taxation.

Every time a student bought anything he put down the part of the price that represented ligitimate cost and profit in the deal, and then he counted out in pennies the amount that had been added by taxation. It took a lot of pennies.

It was a good demonstration and, in a way, a good joke, but the merchants got tired of counting the pennies. They even got advice from Washington and the Treasury Department officials dug up a law some 40 years old limiting legal tender of pennies to 25 cents.

The significant feature of the incident is that those hidden taxes on such things as students are likely to buy, required so many pennies that the merchants refused to count them.—Detroit News.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Open Letter To Driver Who Speeds

Editor's Note—A News-Journal reader who was so much impressed by the following "open letter" to a reckless motorist that he passed it along to us. It is well worth reading—especially by motorists who sometimes do not "stop to think."

I saw you barely miss a little boy on a tricycle this afternoon and heard you yell, "Get the H— out of the way! Don't you know any better than to ride in the street?" He didn't answer because he hasn't learned to talk very well yet. So I'm going to answer for him.

No, the little boy doesn't know any better than to ride his tricycle in the street. He has been warned not to, but little boys don't always heed warnings. Some adults don't either, especially traffic warnings; for example, the one limiting the speed of automobiles.

I'm going to tell you something about that little boy. He has a mother who endured considerable inconvenience, anxiety and suffering to bring him into the world. He has a father who has worked hard and made many sacrifices to make him healthy and happy. The supreme purpose of their lives is to have their little boy grow up to be a useful man.

Now stop a minute and think. If you should kill a child, how would you feel facing its parents? What excuse could you give them for having robbed them of their dearest possession? More important: What excuse could you possibly offer Him whose Kingdom is made up of little children?

Children, my hasty friend, were here long before you or your automobile were thought of. All the automobiles on earth are not worth the life of one little boy. We don't know what that little boy may some day be. But we know what you are, and it's unimportant. We could get along without you, but we can't spare a single little boy on this street.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Ever since a prominent film studio announced that "Marie Antoinette" would be made into a motion picture the characters of Stefan Zweig's book have been coming to your correspondent 's attention around town.

On upper Broadway there is the Marie Antoinette hotel, which was named for that unhappy queen. A few strides away is the Dauphin, another hotel representing the crown prince or heir to the throne. And down in the village, at 9th street on University Place, is the Hotel Lafayette, commemorating "the eager boy" who crossed the seas to help Washington against the British.

The tall figure of Lafayette moves like a futile ghost across the last days of Marie Antoinette's reign. He wanted the revolution, although he remained, in a sense, loyal to the queen and her royal consort. He makes a last dramatic entrance on horseback, attempting to turn the tide after the Paris mobs have been unfettered. But his plans go haywire—he makes a few fumbling gestures—and gains nothing, not even a nod from the doomed queen who has grown to despise him.

THE palace at Versailles where Louis and Toinette held court has its Manhattan counterpart in an East Side nightclub. Its walls are arodned with murals which depict the royal gardens and the gaming rooms where "that Austrian woman" dallied with the "friends" who were first to desert her when the showdown came.

It was there that the fatal incident of the diamond necklace took place; there her children were born, and there she met the two people whom, respectively, she loved and despised more than any she ever knew. These were Ferson, the Swede, the only man who ever won her heart, and Madame Dubarry, whom she characterized as lickspittle and refused to address.

If Stefan Zweig never wrote another book he would deserve a place in letters for this tremendously moving biography of one he calls "An average woman."

And now Hollywood steps in with the sad, wistful beauty of Norma Shearer in the title role. I cannot pass those hotels on Broadway or drop into the Lafayette for coffee without seeing her face and wondering if, in real life, the queen herself was ever half so beautiful.

April Is a Lady

—By HELEN LOOMIS LINHAM

Beauty burns a soft and lovely light,
And spins a golden web for willing feet;
And laughter like a tingling bell and bright,
Runs swiftly on the breezes that I meet;
And, too, I hear an emerald melody
In arching trees new-leafed and sweet with spring;
And beauty takes my hand that I may see
Each bud, each bird, each singly lovely thing.
My feet feel softly of the waking sod,
My eyes see tapestries of pink and blue;
And in the grasses baby flowers nod,
Their fragrant petals strung with morning dew;
And beauty trips, a lovely lady dressed
With daffodils against her firm young breast.

'Y' CAMPS SET

Dates Announced for Sessions at Camp Nelson Dodd.

Two camping periods will be held again this summer by the Y. M. C. A. at Camp Nelson Dodd, near Brinkhaven, Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary of the "Y", announced today.

The first period begins July 10 and continues until July 24, while the second period will be for one week, beginning July 24.

No limit has been placed on the number of boys Mansfield "Y" can send, but Chapman hopes that at least 50 boys will attend the two periods. Registrations for the camp can be made now at the Y. M. C. A. office.

The "Y" camp reunion will be replaced this year by a father and son dinner next Tuesday, to which those who attended the "Y" camp last year are invited to attend, Chapman said.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Stories about farms have a peculiar fascination for city children. "Smiling Hill Farm" by Miriam E. Mason is one of the outstanding books of 1937. The book is divided into three parts. Pioneer Days (1817-1823), The Red-Brick House (1847-1857), The New Pioneers "1935-1937). It is the story of the Wayne family and how, more than one hundred years ago they traveled from Virginia to Indiana in an ox wagon. Their children built the Red Brick House, and some went farther west to Oregon.

Kate Seredy has made a great many of her lovely illustrations for this book. The new ways of farming are contrasted with the old.

FLIERS TO USE GALLOPING DOCK

LONDON —(AP)— A "galloping dry dock" has been built to transport on either land or water new flying boats designed for an Atlantic service.

The dock gets its name from the way it performed in a recent test: Diving into the water it picked up a 45-ton load, brought it ashore and ran it about at three miles an hour.

A double row of buoyancy air tanks on either side raises both the dock and its burden after they have established contact in the water.

Wants More Billions To Spend.

EXCEPT as they revealed his determination to proceed along lines of heavy government spending in an effort to bring national recovery, President Roosevelt's message to congress yesterday and his fireside chat last night failed to offer any new material, or to give encouragement to those who have recognized the fallacies of Rooseveltian theories.

While casual reference to expenditure of billions of dollars of public money is no longer as startling as it was a few years ago, it is not yet possible to consider the ambitious spending program outlined by the president, with its large increases over earlier estimates, without wondering where it will all end.

Earlier spending of billions, with identically the same intent and following similar representations by the president, not only failed to bring national recovery but finds unemployment conditions worse than at any previous time.

Aside from the truism that sound recovery is dependent on increase in the total national income, with consequent expansion of individual purchasing power, and a plea for co-operation of business—and all groups—in encouragement of private employment, President Roosevelt's message and radio talk served more as reiteration of his own ideology than as a basis for practicable action.

If, by some magic process, limitless billions of dollars could be made available without any burden of taxation, and if what is termed "human nature" could be remade over night, some such Utopian proposals as those made by the president might be regarded as applicable to the present situation.

It is unfortunate that President Roosevelt, in his position of leadership at this crucial time, has apparently been unable to grasp the fact that he himself, and some of his policies which have already been rejected by congress, have served to weaken public confidence and bring about a feeling of uncertainty that has retarded national recovery, despite tremendous expenditures of public money by the federal government.

It may well be regretted that so little encouragement toward substantial improvement can be found in the president's message or in his radio talk.

Alliance Endangered By Fund Shortage.

SOME IDEA of the financial plight in which cities may find themselves as a result of failure to provide sufficient funds to meet the costs of operating essential public services, is found in the experience of Alliance, Stark county city with a population of around 25,000.

With police and fire departments cut to six members each, as an economy measure, it was necessary this week in Alliance to call upon volunteers to aid firemen in fighting a downtown fire which threatened adjoining property.

Continuance of meager municipal expenditures in Alliance is forecast as a result of recent defeat of a proposed 5-mill tax levy intended to augment operating funds and provide money to meet the city's share of several WPA projects.

Alliance is not unlike a number of other Ohio cities, which have been seriously hampered in normal operation by reduction of taxes which resulted from adoption of the 10-mill limitation on real estate, without substitution of adequate means of bridging the gap.

With realization of an already excessive tax burden, due to federal extravagance and state wastefulness of public money, there has been an inclination among many voters in the past few years to turn thumbs down on any special tax levy or bond issue proposal, regardless of merit.

As is the case in Alliance, such an attitude can work serious detriment to a city and is likely, in the long run, to prove much more costly than the extra taxes would be.

Mansfield may well profit from the experience of other cities, in seeing to it that reasonable future needs are anticipated in time to make sure that sufficient money will be available to meet them—so that there will at no time be requirement for dangerous curtailment of essential public services.

Meeting the Queen.

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY, new American ambassador to Great Britain, seems to be infusing more American spirit into the job than usual. He has stopped presenting American social aspirants by wholesale at the British court.

In a letter to Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the ambassador condemns as undemocratic the selection of young ladies for court presentation from a long list of candidates he has never seen. He intends, he says, to confine such honors to the families of American public officials and other Americans living in England.

The change meets the approval of Senator Lodge, who replies: "I think this is a good decision and that you have adopted a truly democratic policy." He knows how ambassadors in London have been plagued by this form of social graft.

Light From Ceiling.

HOUSE furniture and interior decoration are changing rapidly nowadays, and so is lighting. A business writer reports an interesting novelty found in a Toledo glass factory—ceiling mirrors. These mirrors, he says, are made of a new, translucent material which glows when the illumination is turned on behind it. It makes a pleasant, diffused light through the room, whose origin is not apparent. And by daylight the room seems to be twice the usual height.

So many novelties are now under experiment, or ready for production, that it is safe to say modern houses, outside and inside, will be very different a few years from now.

It may be a mere coincidence, but the recession seems to have come along just when sale of the book on "How to Influence People" was at its height.

At least one psychologist says a person can think better with his feet propped up on a desk—which should popularize him among office holders.

There is a growing suspicion that some college boys regard the pigskin as more important than the sheepskin.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

SUPPOSE New Dealers win in Democratic primaries this year? (A survey "shows" that they will, in the majority of instances.) Will the next session of congress then be more willing to adopt Rooseveltian measures? And will the president then be in a more powerful position to "choose" his successor as a Democratic candidate?

It is probable, in that case, that the 1939 congress may enact the most important of the Rooseveltian measures — and with less modification than if they had been passed this year.

VOTER'S PLAINT.

Says a letter from "A Voter":

"I am a Democrat. I voted for President Roosevelt twice. I not only believe in his measures, but think he does not go far enough. We must keep up with the changing times, if we are to survive. To go back, or to stand still would be disastrous.

"Yet the rank and file of the Democratic politicians are blind. For example, the representative to congress from my district is a Democrat. He defeated a Republican in the last election. I voted for him because I wanted a congressman who would support President Roosevelt.

"This man, however, once in office, has attacked and voted against everything that the president proposes, even the minor things.

"I contend that the voters have been cheated. But what is the remedy Defeat this man in the primary I hope so!"

OLD CARS.

Letters recently have been crowded out of this column, thus today we are cleaning up the old correspondence. Here is one, received in the past month, which deserves attention. It is from David Lerner, New Castle, Pa.:

"You are no doubt aware of the propaganda being carried on by automobile dealers for the purpose of destroying automobiles above a certain age...

"If these gentlemen would condescend to to enter an auto wrecking yard, they would learn that it is not the old cars which are smashed up more often. That some cars are not safe on the highways everyone realizes. But the answer to this is careful state inspection of all automobiles about twice a year and strict enforcement of a law that every owner must see that his car is safe when he ventures on the highways.

"Moreover, it would be economic waste to destroy automobiles which are safe and dependable. Poor people, little concerned with style, will lose the opportunity for inexpensive transportation."

Have automobile manufacturers and dealers or any other readers, additional ideas on this?

SECURITY AND LIBERTY.

The democratic world is striving these days to find a formula for security that does not at the same time destroy liberty.

"What would give people SECURITY, EQUALITY and LIBERTY?

"To get security we should protect the private ownership of personal property; but control the nation's economic machinery so as to produce jobs and plenty for all. Should give agriculture a fair profit on what it sells. Provide ample pensions for old people, and see that men over 45 were not denied work. Have a military force sufficient to command the world's respect.

"To get equality, the government should pay for vocational education for all youth. Should given women the same pay and chance for advancement as men. Allow everyone to vote regardless of race and without paying a poll tax.

"To get liberty, people should have religious freedom and be allowed to worship, or not, as they pleased, and to follow the dictates of their natural desires, where these do not infringe on the rights of others.

"To provide all these and hold our own in this warring world would require more wealth. Which could be obtained by increased production through planning. We have enough raw materials, enough factories, enough men. Why not put them to work?

"Some people blame 'uncertainty,' for present conditions. What is certain in this world? Will it be the faltering steps of timid men, or the determined steps of courageous ones, which will lead to recovery?

"To obtain their aims must men always organize and fight?"

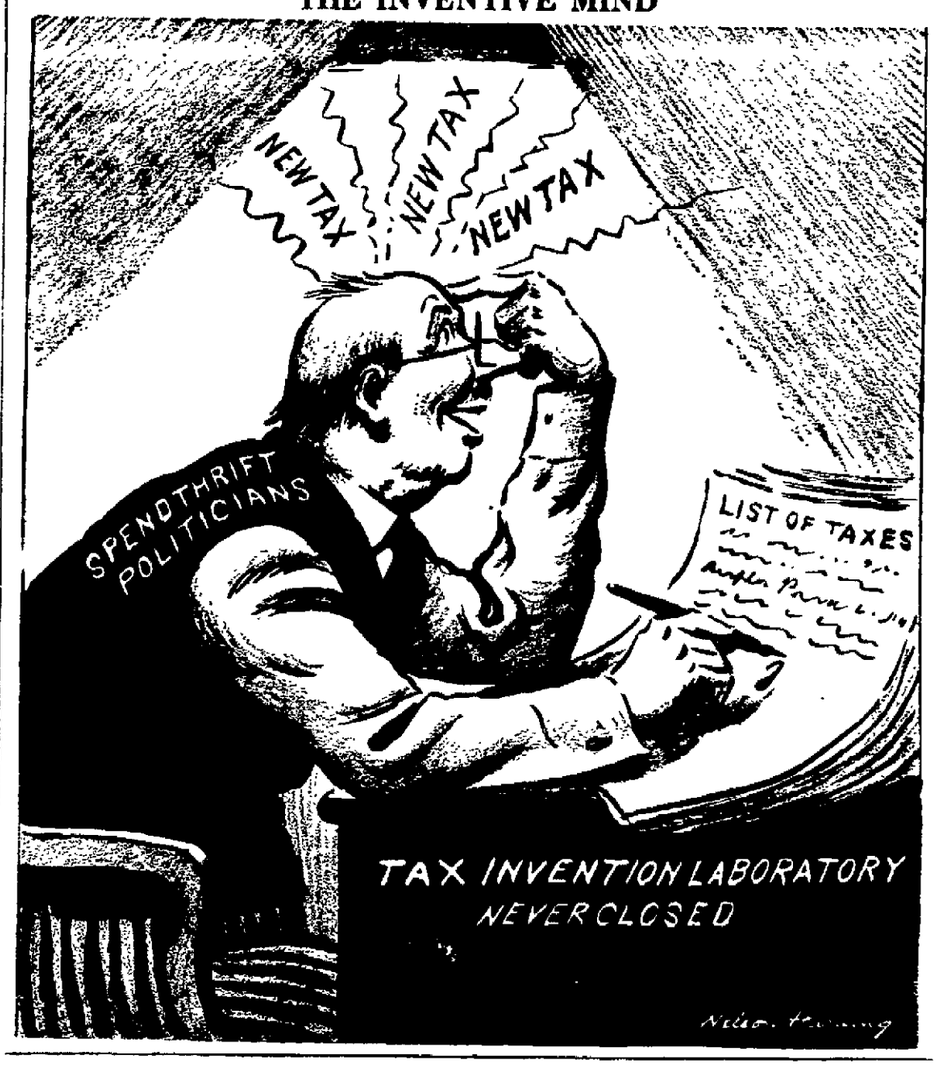
THE INVENTIVE MIND



No Prosecutor for TVA Inquiry

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — The TVA investigation will be unique among the outstanding congressional inquiries of the last quarter of a century in one particular —it will not have a prosecutor!

Some senator or member of the house among the ten who compose the committee may decide, after the thing gets started, to take a real interest and try to get somewhere with it. There is no such promise to those who know the men from looking over their names, but surprises do happen.

But in the past it has been the custom, when a committee was appointed to delve into something, to pick out the particular man who had been doing most of the crusading on that subject, and put him on the investigating body, if not as chairman, then at least as a member.

For example, after Senator Burton K. Wheeler had been attacking Harry M. Daugherty, then attorney general under President Harding, bitterly for weeks, and virtually forced the appointment of an investigating committee, he was appointed on it. He was not made chairman, for the simple reason that he was a Democratic senator, and the Republicans were in control of the senate, so that all chairmanships were given to Republicans.

BUT — everybody knew when Wheeler was appointed that he would really run the committee, and he did Every one knew that Smith Wildman Brookhart, who was named chairman, would not be able to stop Wheeler even if he wanted to do so. But every one knew also that Brookhart was more of a radical and a crusader at heart even than Wheeler was, so he would be delighted to give Wheeler free rein. As a matter of fact, it got to be called the "Wheeler committee."

When Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, father of the present senator of the same name, finally got his resolution for investigation of the lease of Teapot Dome passed, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, who agreed with La Follette about it and was known as a relentless prosecutor, was named chairman.

Walsh made history, digging in for the carefully hidden trails long after nearly every one but Walsh and La Follette was persuaded that actually the whole thing was all right.

THIS has always been the rule in both houses, though frequently committee chairmen, especially in the house of representatives, have stolen the thunder of the special prosecutors simply because they out-prosecuted them. House members have a little harder time getting publicity than senators, and hence are less loath to do battle when they get a chance for the front pages.

If the normal course of procedure had been followed in the TVA investigation, Senator H. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, would have been named as one of the Republican members. He would not have been put at the head of the senate list, because he is a Republican, but certainly he would have been put on the committee, because he is the one senator who has been exhaustively investigating the situation and studying the subject for more than a year — knows more about it than any one else in either house in all probability.

Similarly, in the house, Representative Andrew J. May, of Kentucky, would have been appointed, for he has been a crusader on the whole TVA ever since the issue became controversial. There are two reasons why this procedure is and has been sound policy. One is that it insures members of the investigating committee who know something about it and are interested. The other is that it insures real probing because men of the prosecutor type will keep trying to get the unpleasant facts.

Health Advice

Paralysis a Constant Menace.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

Recently the nation celebrated the president's birthday. As you know, this series of money-making parties is held each year to promote the fight against infantile paralysis. Much has been accomplished to this end by the generous contributions to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

No one can question the importance of continued research in this field. Scientific research costs money. During the past two years more than a quarter of a million dollars has been granted to a group of American universities for the work. Out of this vital activity discoveries have already been developed. But continued grants to the laboratories for experimental work is necessary if there are to be further strides teoward the conquering of this disease.

Every parent dreads the very name of infantile paralysis. Many of us recall the fear we had for our youngsters during recent epidemics. Yet, we are prone to forget the dangers of the disease when there are no marked outbreaks of it. Sad to say, we seem to forget about those who have been permanently crippled by it.

Do not be coaxed to believe, either, that infantile paralysis is under control. On the contrary, it is ever on the increase. As a matter of fact, epidemics have been increasing in frequency and in severity.

Gives No Warning.

This terrible ailment strikes without warning. As a rule, it attacks children under 10 years of age, but no age is immune to its ravages. Many an adult has suffered its effects.

Not only is there a threat to life, but many of the cases result in partial and permanent deformity. The complications of the disease are not so severe as in former years, but the menace is always present.

These facts indicate how necessary it is to continue to make possible the research work in infantile paralysis. This must continue until a sure means of combatting the disease is known. At the moment we do not even know for sure how the disease is transmitted. Of course, no method of prevention has been discovered.

Many of the deforming effects of the disease can be dealt with successfully. We pray there will shortly be found means for its prevention and cure. Until that happy day we must avail ourselves of all that medical science has learned.

Open Letter To Driver Who Speeds

Editor's Note—A News-Journal reader who was so much impressed by the following "open letter" to a reckless motorist that he passed it along to us. It is well worth reading—especially by motorists who sometimes do not "stop to think."

I saw you barely miss a little boy on a tricycle this afternoon and heard you yell, "Get the H— out of the way! Don't you know any better than to ride in the street?" He didn't answer because he hasn't learned to talk very well yet. So I'm going to answer for him.

No, the little boy doesn't know any better than to ride his tricycle in the street. He has been warned not to, but little boys don't always heed warnings. Some adults don't either, especially traffic warnings: for example, the one limiting the speed of automobiles.

I'm going to tell you something about that little boy. He has a mother who endured considerable inconvenience, anxiety and suffering to bring him into the world. He has a father who has worked hard and made many sacrifices to make him healthy and happy. The supreme purpose of their lives is to have their little boy grow up to be a useful man.

Now stop a minute and think. If you should kill a child, how would you feel facing its parents? What excuse could you give them for having robbed them of their dearest possession? More important: What excuse could you possibly offer Him whose Kingdom is made up of little children?

Children, my hasty friend, were here long before you or your automobile were thought of. All the automobiles on earth are not worth the life of one little boy. We don't know what that little boy may some day be. But we know what you are, and it's unimportant. We could get along without you, but we can't spare a single little boy on this street.

God, Help Me Leave My Tomb!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

VERY DIM it was, in that place of death where the cypress trees spilled their blood-dark shadows on the lonely path.

Very still it was, with no leaf stirring, and the lilies drooping in their pale, blurred files.

Silent, too, lay many in Jerusalem...from proud Pilate's palace to the pallets of the poor . . . shocked and sickened by the thing which had been done.

Young Jesus dead! They, too, wished they had died! So, as the first light brightened in the east, and the small chorus of the birds began, a muffled woman entered through the gate. A slender, lovely woman who walked wearily, and carried on her arm a basket filled with linen and rare spice.

Then, as she passed, the sunlight widened till it fell upon the tomb where they had laid the Lord . . . and after that had sealed the entrance with a stone, and set two Roman soldiers to keep guard, lest even yet, the angry Hebrews rise.

Slowly the woman came, half blind with grief. But, as she bent, her startled eyes beheld—

The stone was gone! Gone, too, the figure which had lain inside!

Then, terrified, she ran to bring His friends. But when they came, they also saw the same . . . the empty tomb . . . the napkin which had been around his head . . . and, rolled aside and spangled now with dawn, the stone which Rome had set to seal the dead!

And then the men fled, angered and dismayed. But Mary, who had loved him . . . Mary stayed. And weeping, she knelt and once more looked within. And saw there, angels, shining white, who said—

"My Lord—they're taken Him!" poor Mary cried—

"Why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou?"

Then, suddenly, felt Someone at her side. And, turning saw a Man who heard her tale, then smiled and, tenderly as one would soothe a child, leaned down and whispered—

"Mary!"

TWO THOUSAND years ago since that first Resurrection morn. And always we have heard the same sweet message drawn—of life reborn. And yet there seems to me another meaning in that Easter dawn. Not just the wonder that Christ, having died, should live again. But this far greater marvel—that He CHOSE to live. That, having found at last release from pain, HE SHOULD BE WILLING TO FACE LIFE AGAIN.

It's life that's hard to take, not death. To die—that's easy. One can always make a tomb. Just turn away, and wrap yourself in fear, or hate, or gloom. You dread the strife? Then there's a perfect hide-away from life! And you're as dead as though six feet of earth lay on your head.

But Christ not only rose—
He chose to rise.
He chose to leave
Both tomb and Paradise—
And so, taught man the way
To dare to live again
On Easter day.

Dear Brother Jesus,
Hear me as I pray!
Help me to put
My selfish tombs away,
And risk, with You,
New Life,
New Joy,
New Trials,
This Easter Day!

Those Hidden Taxes.

Students at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute who tried to make practical application of their studies of taxation have been discouraged by unimaginative trades people of the college town, Troy, N. Y. After examining a lot of charts and reading laws and books on political economy, the young people thought up a plan to teach the public the meaning of concealed taxation.

Every time a student bought anything he put down the part of the price that represented legitimate cost and profit in the deal, and then he counted out in pennies the amount that had been added by taxation. It took a lot of pennies.

It was a good demonstration and, in a way, a good joke, but the merchants got tired of counting the pennies. They even got advice from Washington and the Treasury Department officials dug up a law some 40 years old limiting legal tender of pennies to 25 cents.

The significant feature of the incident is that those hidden taxes on such things as students are likely to buy, required so many pennies that the merchants refused to count them.—Detroit News.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Ever since a prominent film studio announced that "Marie Antoinette" would be made into a motion picture the characters of Stefan Zweig's book have been coming to your correspondent 's attention around town.

On upper Broadway there is the Marie Antoinette hotel, which was named for that unhappy queen. A few strides away is the Dauphin, another hotel representing the crown prince or heir to the throne. And down in the village, at 9th street on University Place, is the Hotel Lafayette, commemorating "the eager boy" who crossed the seas to help Washington against the British.

The tall figure of Lafayette moves like a futile ghost across the last days of Marie Antoinette's reign. He wanted the revolution, although he remained, in a sense, loyal to the queen and her royal consort. He makes a last dramatic entrance on horseback, attempting to turn the tide after the Paris mobs have been unfettered. But his plans go haywire—he makes a few fumbling gestures—and gains nothing, not even a nod from the doomed queen who has grown to despise him.

THE palace at Versailles where Louis and 'Toinette held court has its Manhattan counterpart in an East Side nightclub. Its walls are arodned with murals which depict the royal gardens and the gaming rooms where "that Austrian woman" dallied with the "friends" who were first to desert her when the showdown came.

It was there that the fatal incident of the diamond necklace took place; there her children were born, and there she met the two people whom, respectively, she loved and despised more than any she ever knew. These were Ferson, the Swede, the only man who ever won her heart, and Madame Dubarry, whom she characterized as lickspittle and refused to address.

If Stefan Zweig never wrote another book he would deserve a place in letters for this tremendously moving biography of one he calls "An average woman."

And now Hollywood steps in with the sad, wistful beauty of Norma Shearer in the title role. I cannot pass those hotels on Broadway or drop into the Lafayette for coffee without seeing her face and wondering if, in real life, the queen herself was ever half so beautiful.

April Is a Lady

—By HELEN LOOMIS LINHAM

Beauty burns a soft and lovely light,
And spins a golden web for willing feet;
And laughter like a tingling bell and bright,
Runs swiftly on the breezes that I meet;
And, too, I hear an emerald melody
In arching trees new-leafed and sweet with spring;
And beauty takes my hand that I may see
Each bud, each bird, each singly lovely thing.
My feet feel softly of the waking sod,
My eyes see tapestries of pink and blue;
And in the grasses baby flowers nod,
Their fragrant petals strung with morning dew;
And beauty trips, a lovely lady dressed
With daffodils against her firm young breast.

'Y' CAMPS SET

Dates Announced for Sessions at Camp Nelson Dodd.

Two camping periods will be held again this summer by the Y. M. C. A. at Camp Nelson Dodd, near Brinkhaven. Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary of the "Y", announced today.

The first period begins July 10 and continues until July 24, while the second period will be for one week, beginning July 24.

No limit has been placed on the number of boys Mansfield "Y" can send, but Chapman hopes that at least 50 boys will attend the two periods. Registrations for the camp can be made now at the Y. M. C. A. office.

The "Y" camp reunion will be replaced this year by a father and son dinner next Tuesday, to which those who attended the "Y" camp last year are invited to attend, Chapman said.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Stories about farms have a peculiar fascination for city children. "Smiling Hill Farm" by Miriam E. Mason is one of the outstanding books of 1937. The book is divided into three parts. Pioneer Days (1817-1823), The Red-Brick House (1847-1857). The New Pioneers "1935-1937). It is the story of the Wayne family and how, more than one hundred years ago, they traveled from Virginia to Indiana in an ox wagon. Their children built the Red Brick House, and some went farther west to Oregon.

Kate Seredy has made a great many of her lovely illustrations for this book. The new ways of farming are contrasted with the old.

Ankenytown Holds Easter Sunrise Service At 4:30

ANKENYTOWN—Ankenytown's first union Easter sunrise service will be held at 4:30 a. m. Sunday at Leedy park under the auspices of the young people of First Brethren church.

The service will be conducted by Rev. Arnold Kriegbaum, pastor of First Brethren church, Rev. Martin Kreiger, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, and Rev. Hamilton, pastor of the Christian church at Palmyra.

A young people's choir comprised of Reta Brubaker, Katherine Biffath, Liela Seymour, John Leedy, Wayne Guthrie, Earl Beal, Wendell Grant, Eugene Grant, Merle Grant and Donna Bechtel will furnish the music.

Ushers will be Ronald Drushal, Raymond Drushal, Clyde Diehl, Carrol Diehl, Harley Leedy, and Clarence Strickler. The service will be opened with a trumpet call by Eugene Grant.

During the regular worship hour at 11 a. m. at the First Brethren church, Miss Estella Myers, missionary on furlough from Africa, will speak.

FLIERS TO USE GALLOPING DOCK

LONDON —(AP)— A "galloping dry dock" has been built to transport on either land or water new flying boats designed for an Atlantic service.

The dock gets its name from the way it performed in a recent test: Diving into the water it picked up a 45-ton load, brought it ashore and ran it about at three miles an hour.

A double row of buoyancy air tanks on either side raises both the dock and its burden after they have established contact in the water.

A Farmer's Diary

April 14

MY NEIGHBOR is sheering sheep I saw him at work with the springy shears — his broad hand almost covered them. He set the sheep upon its tail, with the fore and hind feet just beside him and began to clip on the back of the head Snip, snip! The wool fell in one of the fleecy coats he got to down the back of the neck and shoulders

The farmer used a to hold the sheep most desired and hand would pull the skin so that the go over the surface ting too deep When was finished from the forelegs and so on down until the underside looked like a seamless inverted coat

I smelled the odor of the oil, wool and noticed the shearers hands were moist with grease I saw small bloody marks upon the rougher places of the skin as the sheep stumbled to its feet shook itself and ran off with a bleat of satisfaction

'How many can you shear in a day?' I asked

'Well, if I work full hours and take no time out only to eat and the sheep are not too dirty I reckon I can do twenty-eight I did that in Jones flock yesterday in ten hours But his were in fine shape

"What will that fleece weigh that you're folding?

'It is 'bout pretty heavy It'll up darn near eight pounds'

As he held it in his hands moving it up and down to test its weight a ripple of satisfaction moved across his keen, bearded face "Wool is low now. It usually is in the spring I'm goin' to store mine till things get better"

"How much is it?" I ventured

"Only twenty cents—and may go lower"

"Today is warm" I mused as I left the barn 'The sheep will not suffer much"

The Victorious Servant

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson for Easter Sunday is Acts 2:22-36, the Golden Text being Acts 2:32, "This Jesus did God raise up, whereof we all are witnesses.")

THE ABIDING proof of Christ's resurrection from the dead is his church confronting the world with its tesimony. "This Jesus did God raise up, whereof we all are witnesses." Something had happened that changed Christ's disciples from cringing cowards to courageous crusaders. What made so great a change in these men in so short a space as three days? There is a resurrection within them that requires another resurrection to explain. Their faith and hope had expired at the cross with their master. But now, as Peter explains the change, they are "begotten again unto a living hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead."

The Cross Cheated.

There was no question about Christ's death. The whole city had witnessed that. "Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God unto you by mighty works . . . even as ye yourselves know; him, being delivered up by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye by the hand of lawless men did crucify and slay; whom God raised up, having loosed the pangs of death; because it was not possible that he should be holden of it." The question was how the apparent victim of the cross had become the victor over the cross and the grave and death of which these were but the symbols. As Peter sees it now, it could not be otherwise. It was the only

CHAPTER XIII

He said, in a studiously quiet voice, "Someone's trying to get me into trouble. If they bring it off, I should be finished as far as my present job is concerned, and as far as politics are concerned. There'd be a black mark against me. But they're not going to bring it off. I'm going to get to the bottom of it and clear myself."

"You can't tell me about it?"

He did look at her then. This was a Gay he had not seen before —serious, troubled.

He said, "I don't think so. You'll hear the talk—you're bound to."

* * *

Her lip quivered. She put up her hand to it like a child and shook her head.

"I wouldn't listen—you know that. Won't you tell me?"

"I think it is better, I don't, Gay."

She looked away with a quick turn of the head as if he had hurt her. He found his hand on her arm.

"Gay—don't. I'd like to tell you, but it's not my affair."

Gay jumped up.

"Come and dance! That's what we came here for, isn't it? Oh, no—you did say something about wanting to talk to me—didn't you? But, of course—how stupid of me—you only meant to find out whether someone had been blackmailing me into putting stolen what-nots into your pocket."

"Gay!" He had got up too. There was the width of the table between them, and hard breaking waves of anger.

Gay's head was high and her eyes bright.

"Well, that was it, wasn't it? You can't say it wasn't—can you?"

Algy was quite as angry as she was—angrier perhaps, because he had the disadvantage of a guilty conscience.

He smiled and said, "Is this an invitation to the waltz?"

Gay considered. Even in the middle of her just indignation she could be practical. If you quarrel with your young man at a night-club, proper pride demands that you either go off with someone else or that you take a taxi home. As the only possible alternative to Algy was Mr. Danvers, and going home would mean more capital punishment, she blenched. Her lip twitched and she broke into an angry laugh.

"For two cents I'd catch the Danvers' eye!"

Algy produced the two pennies and held them out.

"This will be number two in our programme entitled 'Why Girls Take Gas'. Go on—I dare you!"

"Algy, you're a beast!"

He put the coppers in his pocket, slipped his arm round her waist, and said,

"Fierce — aren't you? Come along and dance."

They had made their way as part of a rhythmically moving crowd to the other side of the room, when Gay looked across the packed floor and said in a surprised voice, "There's Sylvia—and Francis."

Algy looked with admiration at Sylvia in white, and with interest at the big fair man beside her.

"They're a good looking couple."

"Yes. I only met him once—and at the wedding, you know. I was a bridesmaid. But you couldn't miss him, could you?"

The Colesboroughs penetrated the dancing mass and were absorbed but the two fair heads could be distinguished. Algy followed them with his eyes, then turned to Gay.

"My word, she's lovely! What's she really like, Gay?"

Gay lifted eyes with a sparkle in them.

"You always call me darling when you're annoyed. Does one know what a person is really like after dancing with her once?"

Gay said, "You often think you do when it's someone like Sylvia."

He let that go, and said in a serious voice,

"I really don't know. Tell me what she's like."

Gay dropped her lashes. She said, "I've known her all my life. I've never seen her lose her temper."

"Yes?" said Algy in a encouraging tone. "She looks like that. What else?"

"She likes beautiful things."

"That's not a crime."

"I didn't say it was."

"Did you mean that she liked herself?"

Gay's eyes sparkled suddenly.

"Darling, how prig! That's not a crime either. I love myself very, very much, and so do you."

"Yes—I think I do," said Algy in an odd voice.

Gay's cheeks burned.

"I love myself, and you love yourself," she said as quickly as her tongue would go.

"I didn't mean that," said Algy. "You know what I meant, but I should not have said it, so I'm not going to say it again, but when this mess is cleared up—"

"We were talking about Sylvia," said Gay in a hurry.

"Yes—go on telling me about her."

"There isn't anything more to tell."

"You mean that?"

Gay said, "Yes."

"Nothing behind all that except a sweet temper?"

"The house is practically unfurnished," said Gay.

* * *

The music stopped. As they went towards their table, the Colesboroughs emerged from a group that was breaking up. The Westgates were in the center of it with Sir James Harringway, the well-known K. C. Linda waved a hand. Giles nodded. Sir James looked, and looked away. His action was just short of being a cut. Gay saw what was impossible to miss—she saw Algy's jaw stiffen. She turned quickly and spoke to Sir Francis Colesborough. But Francis made himself pleasant, asked why he hadn't seen her since the wedding, said she must come down to Cole Lester, and was polite to Algy. Sylvia put her hand through Gay's arm and pinched it—an old signal that meant "I want to speak to you."

When they were at their table, Algy said, "What about Colesborough? He's not an uninhabited house, I take it."

Gay said "No" in a doubtful voice. "I don't know him—I think he's good to Sylvia—I think she's afraid of him—I don't know him."

They danced again. When the final chord blared out Sylvia came to them through the crowd. Algy could not help saying, "How beautifully she moves." There was no hurry, no effort. The crowd did not seem to impede her. She took her own easy, floating way. But there was no ease in the look that met Gay's and spoke an urgent message. It said, "I must see you," but her words were commonplace enough.

"Darling, I'm coming to bits. Be an angel and pin me."

She carried Gay off. In the cloak room, at the farthest glass, she began in a rapid whisper.

"I simply had to see you. It's too dreadful. I don't know what to do."

"What on earth has happened now?" Gay asked in exasperated undertone.

Sylvia clutched her.

"Nothing—not yet—but it will I mean, he'll make me do it—and I'm so frightened."

"Sylly, we can't stay here. If you want to say anything, say it."

"I am," said Sylvia with tears in her eyes. "You know when I rang you up last night, and I thought it was going to be all right because Francis was away so, of course, there wasn't anything I could do about his keys, I was quite happy, but when it came over me that Zero man would be waiting on the doorstep, and I thought how odd it would look—if anyone saw him, you know—so I thought I'd just go down and tell him it wasn't any good, and just as I was getting the window open I heard his latchkey and there he was in the hall."

"Who was?"

"Francis, darling—I told you I heard his latchkey. And of course he wanted to know what I was doing downstairs in my dressing-gown, and just as I got him soothed he saw the curtains move, and when he found I'd been opening the window he was quite dreadful—all suspicious, like a person in a play."

Gay said firmly, "Sylvia, if you don't tell Francis, something dreadful will happen."

Sylvia opened lovely startled eyes.

"There couldn't be anything worse. You don't know him. And you're not letting me tell you what happened. We had a dreadful night, and in the morning, just as I dropped off to sleep, that horrible Zero man rang up again."

"Where was Francis?"

MAPS 2 MORE MESSAGES TO SPUR RECOVERY

Roosevelt Plans More Curbs on U. S. Monopolies, Tax on Government Salaries.

mination of our government to give employment to idle men.

"We are a rich nation; we can afford to pay for security and prosperity without having to sacrifice our liberties into the bargain."

His program for getting out of the recession, he said, "is going to cost something" but the "profit of getting out of it will pay for the cost several times over."

The president, seated at a desk in the oval room of the White House, spoke slowly. His 40-minute talk—longest of his 11 "fireside chats"—came at the close of an unusually busy day, and many listeners thought his voice sounded tired.

The tone of his remarks was regarded by many commentators as more moderate than some of his past speeches. Without giving any indication whether he had in mind any specific setback his legislative program has received, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Because I do not expect too much, I am not disappointed. But I know that I must never give up—that I must never let the greater interest of all the people down, merely because that might be for the moment the easiest personal way out."

Describing how he talked with great and small who called daily at his office, he said it was his constant hope that "neither battles nor burdens of office shall ever blind me to an intimate knowledge of the way the American people want to live and the simple purposes for which they put me here."

Reviews Congress Message.

Most of the talk was a review of the message he sent to congress yesterday noon proposing a three-fold recovery program.

This program contemplates use of $3,050,000,000 for lending and spending on work relief and allied projects, including the new RFC business loan program; $1,462,000,000 for various public works, and a $2,150,000,000 expansion of bank resources to be brought about by desterilization of $1,392,000,000 of gold and the $750,000,000 reduction in federal bank reserve requirements.

The proposed resumption of public spending, which the president described as a "trigger to set off private activity," brought a variety of reactions on Capitol Hill, but there appeared to be no doubt that the program would be approved. Republicans and some Democrats criticized it, while other Democrats expressed support.

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley said he and Speaker Bankhead would meet "in a day or so" to decide whether to cover it entirely in a single bill or to write separate measures on the various phases.

Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), a frequent critic of administration measures, sought support among his western colleagues for a plan to earmark three-quarters of the proposed $1,000,000,000 PWA fund for reclamation projects, flood control and roads. Senator Van Nuys (D., Ind.) said he also thought the fund should be earmarked.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.) an administration critic, predicted the spending-lending program would cause a deficit of $4,540,000,000 in the next fiscal year, beginning July 1. The president told the nation that "this new program adds $2,062,000,000 to direct treasury expenditures and another $950,000,000 to government loans—and the latter sum, because they are loans, will come back to the treasury in the future.

Billion and Half Needed.

"The net effect on the debt of the government is this—between now and July 1, 1939—15 months away—the treasury will have to raise less than a billion and a half dollars of new money.

"Such an addition to the net debt of the United States need not give concern to any citizen, for it will return to the people of the United States many times over in increased buying power and eventually in much greater government tax receipts because of the increase in the citizen income."

Harking back to the depression days of 1933, Mr. Roosevelt said that "five years ago we faced a very serious problem of economic and social recovery."

"For four and a half years that recovery preceded apace," he continued. "It is only in the past seven months that it has received a visible setback.

"And it is only within the past two months, as we have waited patiently to see whether the forces of business itself would counteract it, that it has become apparent that government itself can no longer safely fail to take aggressive government steps to meet it.

"This recession has not returned us to the disasters and suffering of the beginning of 1933. Your money in the bank is safe; farmers are no longer in deep distress and have greater purchasing power; dangers of security speculation have been minimized; national income is almost 50 per cent higher than in 1932; and government has an established and accepted responsibility for relief."

Saved From Death

A chance call from Carl G. Triest, called out of town on business, sent the maid looking for Mrs. Triest (above) in their Kings Point, L. I., home. The young society wife was found unconscious in her car, the engine of which was running. She was rushed to a hospital and revived with an inhalator. Had the call come a few minutes later, she might have succumbed, physicians said.

'Sailor President' Uses Nautical Terms.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt, sometimes called the "sailor president" because of his fondness for the sea, used nautical terms in last night's radio speech to describe his aims.

"To abandon our purpose of building a greater, a more stable and a more tolerant America would be to miss the tide and perhaps to miss the port," he said at the conclusion of his address.

"I propose to sail ahead. I feel sure that your hopes and your help are with me. For to reach a port we must sail—sail, not lie at anchor; sail, not drift."

Here's an Idea on Program's Vastness.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— How much is $39,000,000,000—the estimated potential credit expansion of President Roosevelt's lending-spending program?

Here's an idea:

If you started spending at the rate of $38.29 a minute in the year 1, it would require one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight years to go broke—if you had that much money.

But if you had only the actual amount to be spent and loaned in the new program—$4,512,000,000—you will have to spend at the rate of $4.44 a minute for 1938 years to go broke at the end of this year.

At the end of this year, only 1,018,612,800 minutes will have elapsed since the birth of Christ in the year 1.

COMMEMORATES DEATH ON CROSS

death of Christ, and long before dawn thousands of pilgrims hurried over the cobbled streets to the chapel of Calvary, and this afternon they carried out the ago old ceremony of walking solemnly, reverently over "Via Dolorosa"—the Way of Sorrow—over which Christ walked 1900 years ago, carrying the cross on which he was to die. And like the Roman centurians of centuries ago, British police guarded each step of the way, mindful of the racial strife which still splits the Holy Land.

In Mansfield, Good Friday services began at noon in St. Peter's Catholic and Grace Episcopal churches and continue until 3 p. m. The Catholic ritual started with the mass of the presanctified and was followed with the veneration of the cross and devotions to Christ in His three hours' agony on Calvary.

The Lenten season in the Catholic church ends at noon Saturday. Holy Saturday services begin at 7 a. m. with the blessing of the new fire, the Paschal candle and baptismal and Easter water.

The series of Holy week union services which have been held throughout the week came to a close this noon in two churches, First Lutheran and First Presbyterian.

At the former church, Rev. E. G. Corwin was in charge of the services, with Rev. Peter Young delivering the message, and taking as his subject, "Remember Jesus Christ." Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger presided at First Presbyterian, and Rev. Herbert S. Garnes preached.

OK'S PROMOTION

Shelby Board Approves Scouts for Advancement.

SHELBY — One Eagle scout, Tom Sutter, and two Star scouts, Hal Lewis and Fred Garvin, were approved Thursday night by the Shelby Scout district board of review for promotion at the Johnney Appleseed Area, court of honor, according to C. G. Keck, board chairman, today.

Other scouts approved for promotion: second class—Troop 3, Richard Claes, Jim Hursh, Francis Hiatt, Ned Shreffled, Richard Cumberworth and Glenn Fought; first class—Troop 1, Harry Crawford and Jim Herbert.

Merit badge awards were approved for the following: Fred Garvin, athletics, public health, first aid and woodcraft; Bob Sutter, cooking; Robert Briggs, handicraft, and woodcarving; Harry Crawford, pathfinding; Irvin Hollenbaugh, bookkeeping and handicraft; Stetson Oster, athletics, pathfinding, public health and first aid; Hal Lewis, public health, athletics and first aid; and Roger Pfahlor, public health and first aid.

Promotion will be made during the Shelby Scout district court of honor which will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at room 208 at the high school, Keck stated.

Girl, 7, Victim of Sex Killer; Mob Threatens Suspect

CHILD'S BODY FOUND HIDDEN IN VACANT LOT

Father Finds Youngster Dead of Stab Wounds; Painter Seen With Clothes.

(By International News Service)

DOWNEY, Cal.—Stabbed and bludgeoned to death after being criminally assaulted, the nearly-nude body of 7-year-old Jenny Moreno was found hidden in the weeds in a vacant lot close to her home by her distraught father, John Moreno, early today.

Shortly after, deputy sheriffs and police rescued Charles A. McLachlen, 55, house painter, from a milling mob of neighbors who charged that pieces of the victim's blood-stained clothing were being burned by the man in his shack directly behind the Moreno home.

McLachlen was rushed to the Norwalk sheriff's sub-station for safety and was later returned to the scene of the crime where he was grilled by Capt. William Penprase, chief investigator for the sheriff's office.

Find Hammer, Knife.

Penprase reported that a blood-stained butcher knife and hammer were found in the field close to where the child's body was found.

Jenny had been missing since yesterday, when she left her home to play with her school mates. When she failed to return for her evening meal, her father and two of her uncles set out to search for her.

Almost at the same time that Moreno discovered the child's horribly slashed little body hidden under a pile of weeds, fire broke out in the McLachlen home.

Firemen said they found bits of a young girl's clothing, blood-stained and a pair of tiny shoes rammed down a drain pipe in the small frame shack.

With the almost simultaneous discovery of the child's body and the clothing, irate neighbors formed a mob in front of McLachlen's place and cries of "Lynch him!" rang out as deputies and officers reached the scene.

McLachlen, cringing behind the protecting officers, cried out his innocence as he was hustled away.

According to Capt. Penprase, Moreno told him that McLachlen was a friend of the family and frequently had given small presents of pennies and candies to the murdered girl.

He lived alone in his cottage on the rear of a lot where his son, "Peppy" McLachlen, and the latter's wife reside.

EDWIN B. KING DIES IN WEST

Former Mansfielder, 81, Had Been Ill For Two Years.

Edwin B. King, 81, a former resident of Mansfield, died in Santa Monica., Cal., Wednesday, it was learned here today. Mr. King, who had lived more than 50 years in Mansfield, left here about 25 years ago and had lived in Maumee, O., until two years ago, when he moved to the Pacific coast. He had been in ill health for the past two years.

He is survived by his wife, the former Linda Ritz of Mansfield, and a son, Robert, both in Santa Monica.

Funeral services will be held in Santa Monica tomorrow.

SUPER-HIGHWAY BILL BOTTLED UP

Senate Rejects Bulkley's Plea To Reconsider Motion.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Sen. Robert J. Bulkley's super-highway bill apparently was bottled up today after the senate refused to reconsider a motion referring it to the post office and post roads committee from the banking and currency committee.

The senate rejected, 32 to 29, a motion by Sen. Harry Truman, D., Mo., to reconsider the vote by which Sen. Kenneth McKellar, D., Tenn., had it taken from the banking and currency committee and referred to his own group.

The banking and currency committee, of which Bulkley is a member, had started consideration of the measure in sub-committee before McKellar's action.

The boys and girls in Mansfield Senior high school should have no trouble arranging "dates" for activities this spring, for there's a Jack for every Jill, Principal Jesse Beer's March attendance report shows. For the first time in months the school's enrollment has the same number of boys and girls —689 each. There's another balance in the city's grade school enrollment which shows 570 pupils in the second grade and the same number in the third grade.

While Mayor Claude M. Hunter was somewhat hesitant about asking anyone for an American flag for the Central park flag pole, he was hoping today that one of the city's patriotic citizens would come to the rescue before Memorial day. The colors that have waved over Central park for the past year, tattered beyond repair, were brought to the mayor's office by Jacob Rahm, superintendent of parks, who wanted to know "where will the city get a new one?"

A file of one of the first weekly newspapers published in Mansfield, dating back 112 years, has been discovered at the Public library and provides an interesting contrast with present day publications. In size it is about the proportions of a modern tabloid. All important advertising is carried on the front page and the news inside. Under the heading "Terms," the price of the paper is stated: "Two dollars per annum, one-half the cost to be in cash and the other half in approved country produce." It also stated that no one could discontinue the paper until "all arrearages are paid." The paper also suggested that persons sending contributions "pay the postage in cases where the sender is more interested than the editor." The old copies of the Mansfield Gazette start with the issues of 1826.

ILL 3 YEARS

Mrs. Encie Lucas, 34, Dies at Home Early Today.

LUCAS—Mrs. Encie Lucas, 34, wife of Wesley Lucas, died this morning at her home here following an illness of three years.

Born May 6, 1903, in Pennsylvania, Mrs. Lucas had been a resident of Lucas for the past three and a half years, coming here from Rochester, Pa.

Surviving besides her husband are two sons, Wayne and Kenneth; two daughters, Velma and Helen; a brother, Everett Mershong of Greenfield, O., and two sisters, Mrs. Eva Crusenberry of Dayton and Mrs. Iva Hise of Greenfield, O.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the Byerly funeral home with Rev. Carl Driscoll, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, officiating. The body will remain at the funeral home until Saturday afternoon, and at the family home from then until Monday noon.

ASKS CLEMENCY FOR TOWNSEND

Maine Dem Leader Wants President To Suspend Jail Term.

LEWISTON, Me., —(INS)— Presidential clemency for Dr. Francis E. Townsend, $200-a-month old age pension advocate facing a 30-day jail sentence for contempt of a congressional committee, today had been asked by former Governor Louis J. Brann, leader of the Democratic party in Maine.

Brann, planning a comeback campaign in the next election, telegraphed President Roosevelt:

"Maine Townsend members totaling thousands of citizens respectfully request extension of executive clenency and pardon to Dr. Townsend. I very sincerely and earnestly join in this request."

SCHORR HOPES DAVEY WILL BE PRIMARY VICTOR, BRICKER'S FOE

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Most Republican leaders hope the opposition party will renominate Gov. Martin L. Davey, said G. O. P. Chairman Ed Schorr today.

Their reason: a belief that John W. Bricker, who is expected to be the Republican nominee for governor, would have a better chance of defeating Governor Davey in the general election that he would have of beating Charles Sawyer.

The Republicans, who plan to make charges of graft in the state government under Governor Davey a dominant issue, feel that Davey would make the best target in such an offensive, Schorr said.

Other reasons advanced by Schorr for believing that Sawyer would make a stronger opponent to the Republicans than would Davey:

That Sawyer, with the help of support of most of the big city newspapers as well as that of his own chain of publications, while Davey's backing from the press would be weak;

That Sawyer, with the held of the Roosevelt administration, might receive at least some support from the Committee for Industrial Organization, while Davey would have the CIO against him, and

That Sawyer could count on the national administration for support, a source of assistance that Governor Davey could not depend on.

Chairman Schorr asserted that it was logical the New Deal would not want to see Davey win a third term.

"They would not want a third term governor from Ohio monkeying around the Democratic national convention, for he would be bound to win some consideration as a possibility for the presidential nomination and might upset the plans of others," Schorr explained.

MORE BACKING FOR BRICKER

PORTSMOUTH — (INS) — The Scioto county Republican central and executive committees were on record today as indorsing John W. Bricker as Republican candidate for governor. Sixty-one county Republican organizations have approved Bricker thus far.

UP TO $619,000

Tax Collections Near Mark Established in 1937.

Despite adverse business and industrial conditions, collections of real estate and personal taxes in Richland county today had virtually equalled last year's receipts for the first half of the year, according to County Treasurer John E. Kolb.

Real estate collections, which reached $619,592 today, were described as "exceptionally good."

The charge for the first half of the year was approximately $600,000 including delinquent accounts, but advance payments on the last half boosted the figure beyond the amount the treasurer expected to collect.

Personal tax receipt collections, at $114,846, are still below last year's figure for the first half period, but the books closed only four days ago and mail receipts are expected to bring the total up to the 1937 figure.

GOVERNMENT IN SWIFT MOVE TO SETTLE CRISIS

Premier Hints Force Might Be Used in Order to Evacuate Plants Making Arms.

(By International News Service)

PARIS—Backed by overwhelming parliamentary support, the moderate "national salvation" government of Premier Edouard Daladier buckled down today to the two-fold task of settling French crisis at home and abroad.

Taking an unprecedentedly firm stand with strikers who have almost tied up France's vital rearmament program, Daladier, following a meeting of his inner council, ordered immediate evacuation of seized factories by sit-down strikers.

Behind this order was a hint that the government is prepared to use force to clear out the occupied plants if the strikers refuse to comply with the government's orders.

Work, the government order stated, must be resumed not later than next Tuesday, after the Easter holiday.

158,000 Stay In.

National airplane factories which were held by "sit-downers" have not been evacuated, but 158,000 strikers are still occupying French metalurgical plants—mostly automobile factories. So far, there has been no indication of when these strikers intend to leave the factories or return to work.

It was believed unlikely that any further drastic action will be taken before another meeting of the inner council tomorrow.

At the same time, Daladier went ahead with his new foreign program. It was expected that he and his new foreign minister, Georges Bonnet, would bring about many quick changes in this field shortly.

Strengthening of French ties with Britain, including mutual co-operation of defense forces and more frequent Anglo-French general staff conferences, was believed a part of the projected foreign program.

The strike situation, however, was the most immediate problem, and to deal with this Daladier called upon a defense ministry official, M. Jacomet, to bring about an agreement in industries connected with the rearmament plan. Jacomet is a noted arbitrator.

WIDOW, 73, DIES

Mrs. Florence Kelly Dies After Brief Illness.

Mrs. Florence Schuler Kelly, 73, of Bartley avenue, widow of Edd Kelly, died at the home Thursday after a brief illness. Mrs. Kelly was born in Covington, Ky., but had spent the greater part of her life in Richland county and had lived here 27 years, coming here from Bellville.

A graduate of Bellville high school and Ohio Wesleyan university, she was a member of the First Presbyterian church and the Sorosis club.

Surviving are two sons, Frederick S., of Mansfield, and Donald D., of Cleveland, a sister, Mrs. W. A. Gass, of Peoria, Ill., and three grandchildren.

Services will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in charge of Rev. David N. Roller of the First Presbyterian church. Burial will be in the family vault in Bellville cemetery.

FAIR ENOUGH!

An Effort to Straighten Out Difference Between American and Nazi Logic.

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The Germans have made many important contributions, but none more fascinating than the principle behind Hitler's recent plebiscite on the seizure of Austria. This one should be a great comfort to all criminals, for it holds that after a pickpocket has stolen a watch he may call the operation a rescue, vote himself title to the watch and prosecute the owner for having possessed it.

By the same token, for example, Richard Whitney did not steal money from his victims but rescued it, and not he, but they, should now be in cells in Sing Sing, if not to the electric chair.

American prisons are crowded with rescuers who will welcome the day when the Hitler concept is adopted here, and no doubt if they are polled on the subject they, too, would vote as the German nation did.

* * *

The arrest of Chancellor Schuschnigg for treason to Germany in refusing to surrender Austria until he was forced to do so is consistent with the Hitler policy. He may face a firing squad for this, because if the German reasoning is correct he certainly was guilty of a very grave offense.

Similarly, any man who resists a stickup or burglar would deserve a long term in prison and the death penalty if anyone were killed by his unwise and illegal resistance.

According to the old and perhaps erroneous standard, Chancellor Schuschnigg was a rather staunch patriot. His attitude was that which the world has learned to expect of patriots and had the support of many precedents previously considered honorable. If the Germans had won the war to make the world safe for democracy and had rescued the United States our people would have expected that Woodrow Wilson would be treated with the honors of war and not as a traitor to Germany. Like Schuschnigg, he had no feeling that he owed allegiance to Germany. Yet by the present argument Mr. Wilson was a traitor to the fatherland, and, moreover, any head of any nation which is defeated by Germany in a future war may expect to be punished for treason.

This goes back to and indorses the "Hang-the-Kaiser!" slogan which was heard from the more angry patriots on the allied side between 1914 and 1918, but which was repudiated by the victors for various reasons. Perhaps the repudiation was dictated by consideration for the future. It was conceivable to historians, at least, that a day might came when the hanging of the kaiser could be cited to justify the hanging of a king of England or a president of France or the United States.

Yet if Germany now imprisons or executes Schuschnigg for opposing the rescue of his country, that forbearance of the allies will have been wasted and a great popular thrill will have been sacrificed for nothing

It may be remembered that the Americans, at least, engaged in rescue work long before Hitler's Germans. The Americans wanted no loot beyond a few souvenirs, and their mission in the war was to rescue the German people from the Kaiser. In the end the Allies merely chased him off, however, and not even the most hysterical patrioteer on the allied side attempted to argue that he had been guilty of treason to France, Belgium, Britain, Japan, the United States, Cuba, Haiti, and some nineteen or twenty other countries.

There seems to be no use of our trying to understand the Hitler mentality, for we are steeped in the tradition that the thief or murderer in a given crime is the one who is guilty of wrong and that the victim is the offended party. Obviously, either the Germans or we are crazy when they, as a nation, solemnly march to the polls and vote that Hitler was right in stealing an old-established country and just as solemnly write themselves a clear title to the stolen property.

If we are a normal people the Germans think upside down. According to their mentality, a report of a bank robbery would say, "three armed rescuers held up the First National bank, executed the cashier and two clerks for resisting destiny and rescued $150,000. They then held a plebiscite and unanimously voted 'ja' on the proposition 'Shall we keep the money'?"

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Have you a little "cycle" in your mind—the kind that Hollywood right now would give its eye teeth for? For the first time in years, the town is drifting into that most uncomfortable state of being "cycleless." It's practically crying out loud for a major trend in production. It needs a new merry-go-round to ride, a different band-wagon to hop upon, a new leader in the game of follow-the-leader.

There is always, of course, the first and longest-lived of the "cycles." That's the movie western. It has gone on through the years from movie infancy, now and again given glorified treatment which results in a "Covered Wagon," a "Big Trail" or a "Wells Fargo." But the western by now is a staple product, not a trend.

Hollywood would be happy if it had a "cycle" just one-half as profitable as the one set in motion by "The Doorway to Hell" and "Public Enemy" seven years ago What a merry ride the movie-makers took on that one! All they had to do was gather some plug-uglies, give 'em machine guns, and let 'em start firing. But the gangster business long since went into a decline. Only occasionally now can it be refurbished, from a different angle.

Musicals? They're always with us, but they're not going to be with us in such numbers as they were. They had a brief flurry in the early talkies, suddenly became as popular as plague, and revived only with "42nd Street." Now Zanuck has spoken: he's going to make only the big-star specials, the Sonja Henie, Ritz Bros., Shirley Temple, Cantor numbers. Musicals just for music and dancing are out. Jack Warner also has spoken: he's going to keep on making them, and making them, and making them good.

But the backstage musical—well, what else can they do with that one?

And there isn't much blood left in the turnips of insane comedy. "My Man Godfrey" was a godsend, and the nutty business has flourished overlong. But there, too, what else can they do now? Unless they make pictures that are plain silly—without trying to be?

The sea cycle had a long and honorable career also. "Mutiny on the Bounty" started that and brought in its wake a whole navy of sea-going movies. "Kidnaped" is still in the offing and if it's good may inspire another oceanful of pictures.

The big historical drama will reach its peak—and probably its finish—with "Marie Antoinette." Those things cost too much in these times. The same applies to most of the big biographical plays—and besides Paul Muni is supposed to be weary of playing Frenchmen.

So it looks as if the producers will have to go ahead and make pictures without a box-office model to show the way. Out of these, of course, will come the next "cycle." Just one picture that rings the bell will turn the trick.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

CONFERENCE TO OPEN MONDAY AT LUNCHEON

Dr. Carl A. Wilzbach, Mrs. Frances B. Strain Will Be Presented In Lectures by Ohio P. T. A. Congress Next Week.

MANSFIELD is one of four Ohio cities that will be given a two-day institute for parents and teachers on social hygiene problems, through the aid of the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers. The two-day conference opens here Monday, with a luncheon meeting at First Presbyterian church.

Two speakers of importance will direct the discussion meetings; Dr. Carl A. Wilzbach, executive secretary of the Cincinnati Social Hygiene society, and Mrs. Frances B. Strain, educational director of the same organization. Dr. Wilzbach will speak Monday to adults only and with Mrs Strain will talk to the student body at Senior high school on Tuesday.

The institute is being endorsed in Mansfield by the Council of P. T. A., the board of education and leading physicians and educators of the city. The predominate idea behind the institute is that the home still maintains the most important place in the development of character and that all information on sex and social hygiene problems should come from parents in the home. The institute is to advise parents on the proper way to give out this information to their children, with over-emphasis as well as under-emphasis to be avoided.

Dr. Wilzbach holds a prominent place in the state as an educator on sex and sex hygiene subjects. Mrs. Strain, author of "New Patterns In Sex Teaching" and "Being Born," is a graduate of the universities of Iowa and Colorado, and at one time was psychologist at the children's clinic of the Colorado Psychopathic hospital at Denver. From this position she went to Minneapolis where, under the sponsorship of the University of Minnesota, she carried on extensive research on the problems and methods of sex education. At present she is with the Cincinnati society, lecturing yearly to thousands of parents and acting as consultant on personal and individual problems.

The meeting Monday noon at First Presbyterian church is an open one for parents or adults who are interested, and luncheon tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Fred L. Tracy, head of the committee and other members of the P. T. A. council. The Tuesday conferences will be for students only.

Other Ohio cities which will hold the same institute before the end of the school year are Columbus, Toledo and Springfield. Other cities have held them earlier.

FEDERATION ELECTS NEW STATE OFFICERS

Mrs. Middleton, Mrs. Averill, Mrs. Anson, Mrs. Tappan, Mrs. Chase Attend Convention.

MRS. CHAUNCEY L. NEWCOMER, Bryan, assumed her duties as president of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs following the closing session yesterday of the convention at Columbus at which she was elected to the post. Mrs. Newcomer succeeds Mrs. Earl B. Padgett, Galion, who also served as general chairman for the three-day session.

Mansfield clubs affiliated with the federation and who were generally represented by Mrs. Ambrose Middleton, assistant chairwoman for the convention, are Mansfield Sorosis, Round Table club, Tourist club, Conversational club, Junior Sorosis, Victorian club and the newly organized Women's Civic club.

Other principal officers named at the meeting were Mrs. M. Y. Newcomb, Cincinnati, vice president; Mrs. E. M. Finney, Springfield, secretary, and Miss Anna Brettell, Mingo Junction, treasurer. Mrs. E. E. Ruby, Troy, was elected Mid-North district officer to succeed Mrs. Middleton who served in that position during the past year.

In addition to Mrs. Middleton, Mrs. R. G. Averill, Mrs. George Anson, Mrs. W. J. Tappan and Mrs. B. L. Chase were in Columbus for yesterday's meetings.

Marriage Solemnized In Kentucky Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Tooker, 110 East Fourth street, announced this morning the marriage of their daughter, Zettie, to Alvie Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Robinson, 74 Buckingham street. The couple were united in a quiet ceremony solemnized Wednesday morning at 9 a. m. in Covington, Ky.

Mrs. Robinson was given away by her father, Mr. Tooker, and Mr. Robinson was attended by John Moser of Covington. A wedding supper was held following the return of the party at the home of Mr. Robinson's parents. The couple are making their home with Mrs. Robinson's parents at 110 East Fourth street.

HOME SEWING TIP

Basting threads may be removed easily by clipping them at six-inch intervals and pulling them out with the blunt ends of scissors.

In sewing snaps on garments sew all the halves on one side. Brush them over with chalk. Press against the other side of the garment and the chalk marks will show where each additional half should be attached.

Blue chalk is one of the colors appearing in satin slips and sheer nightgowns. Yellow, iris and purple are other colors that add charm to spring nightgowns.

Lutheran Society Conducts Session

Members of the Mary Markley society of St. Paul Lutheran church met last night at the home of the Misses Elizabeth and Katherine Bollman, 126 Newman street. Devotions were led by Miss Alice Miller who discussed the topic, "If I Were a Moslem Woman Today."

Miss Elizabeth Bollman told of her recent trip to California and showed pictures and articles from the tour. Guests were the Misses Kathryn and Marianna Garman, Springfield, sisters of Mrs. Herman L. Gilbert. A buffet luncheon was served.

The next meeting will be May 12 at the home of Miss Mildred Berg. Miss Katherine Bollman will give the topic.

Pavonia Garden Club Has Regular Meeting

Miss Tressie Hubbs entertained 14 members of the Pavonia Garden club yesterday at her home when the topic, "What Is New for the Garden?" was considered. Papers were read by Miss Caroline Hughes, Mrs. Albert Pittenger, and Mrs. Foster Groff.

Associate hostesses for the session were Mrs. Leo Pittenger and Miss Hughes. The next session will be April 28 at the home of Miss Hughes.

Four-H Club Conducts Business, Contests

Members of the Four-H Cut-Ups met last night at the home of the Misses Hilda and Wilma Goettle, 68 South Main street. Easter appointments were used. Contests were conducted and prizes were given to the Misses Evelyn Lash and Evelyn Jocha.

During the meeting plans for a bake sale were discussed. The next meeting will be April 28 with Miss Mary Louise Spiker, Sycamore street, hostess and Miss Norma Frazier assisting.

Exaggerated shoulder emphasis is out definitely, but shoulder padding continues in use.

Just How Can Girl Make Friends?

By VIRGINIA LEE

I am still thinking about the letter from the girl who is so very lonely and asked me how she could make friends.

I suggested some books to read; some hobbies to play up, some societies to join. As I said yesterday, it is so easy for most of us to make friends. We are pleasant and friendly when we meet strangers, and we DO meet people, and they ask us to go to see them or to go with them somewhere, or we ask them. If we move from familiar surroundings and old friends, we make new ones of our neighbors, our church groups or we join clubs and make them that way. If we do not make friends for ourselves, other members of our families make them and bring them to our homes, and they become our friends.

I have known many people who seemed to have negative personalities, but very few who did not have some friends, even if the friends were negative in their effect on us as the first mentioned.

A psychologist is reported as saying that such books as Dale Carnegie's "How to Make Friends and Influence People," can only be used by those who do not need to know how to do these things "The extrovert, for whom it was written, is naturally outgoing in social relationships, the introvert is emotionally incapable of applying it convincingly, and the individual with an inferiority complex is afraid to try," he is quoted as saying.

Which raises the question as to whether WEARY, the girl who wrote to me and asked help, is capable of trying out what suggestions I gave her. If she isn't, then her only hope is to learn to like to be alone, just like Greta Garbo. In that case she must develop her own personality, her ambitions, talents, tastes. She must decide on what she will make her life work; make it a serious study, fill her life so full with it that she will not miss companionship.

Or, lacking any especial talents or ambitions, she must take up some hobby or hobbies, and follow them with such earnestness that they will take up all her time and give her recompense for lack of comradeship.

If one could consult a good psychiatrist—mind, I say good — or learn to analyze her own reactions, maybe she could discover why she cannot seem to make friends and do something about it.

W. writes that he read Peter G.'s letter in the column and he has the same trouble—that is, he loves a girl very much, but the girl doesn't care so much for him, only as a friend She goes out with other boys, and he goes occasionally with other girls, but he isn't interested in them. He has tried to forget the girl he loves but he can't do it.

He gives Peter this bit of advice: "I find that God will make your heart much lighter, and your life more joyful if you will let him. Try it, Peter."

"DEAR MISS LEE: I care very much for a boy I have been going with for more than two years. We have had spats off and on, but nothing serious. Lately circumstances have kept me from seeing him. I had a chance to speak to him the other day, but he passed it right by. When I pass him on the street he is very cordial and also has a big smile and 'hello' Do you suppose he is trying to tell me in a nice way that he just wants to be friendly and nothing more? C B"

That is anyone's guess, C B. Is it impossible for the young man to come to see you and go places with you, as he used to do? From what you say he doesn't show much enthusiasm about talking to you. His casual hello when you meet would indicate that he wants merely to be a friendly acquaintance, not a steady boy friend.

When you have a number of onions to peel, cover them with hot water, let them stand a minute or two and that thin skin, so hard to get off, can be removed as if by magic.

Favored Fashions

Sheer Style Reminds of Spring Song With Its Dainty Lines.

By MARIAN MARTIN

Few fashions can equal the charm of this simple yet exquisite young style which fits in so happily with the merry spirit of spring. Irresistibly alluring is the full swing of its 12-gore skirt and its simple bodice with subtle fullness cleverly controlled at the shoulders. The back of the bodice extends over the shoulders to give the effect of a yoke. The short sleeves may flutter in the cool spring breezes or be held in snugly by a narrow cuff. Choose a soft, but colorful print if you want to be merry or choose a solid color sheer for cool comfort later. Complete Marian Martin Diagrammed Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9712 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards 39 inch fabric.

BE SURE TO STATE SIZE

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Write for Marian Martin's new book of spring patterns. Better hurry, for you'll want a new printed frock to slip into on these first balmy days. This book is full of gay designs that will give you a lot of bright wardrobe ideas . . . Many of these styles are designed to carry you straight through the summer . . . and all of them are patterned for easy making at home. Price of book fifteen cents. Price of pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together twenty-five cents.

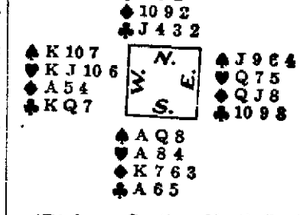
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NONE TOO STRONG

Even the higher no trump requirements observed by many good players today are none too high in rubber bridge if you find your partner with a trickless hand. Your tenaces and guarded kings shrink fearfully when you can't get into the dummy for a lead. If you have to play such a no trump contract doubled, you can take a fearful beating.



(Dealer South North-South vulnerable.)

South's opening bid on this deal was 1-No Trump West doubled this and North passed. East took time out to consider what his partner might hold in order to double and then decided to pass.

It would certainly appear from South's holdings that he held sufficient strength to make 1-No Trump, but he took exactly three tricks. The heart J was led and South held of until the third round He then led a diamond, which East won. The spade J was returned, which South covered with the Q and West with the K. This was followed by the spade 10, which was allowed to hold. The third spade was won by South, who again had to lead out of his hand. He tried another diamond, which East also won. He then cashed his heart K and diamond A and gave the last trick to declarer's club A.

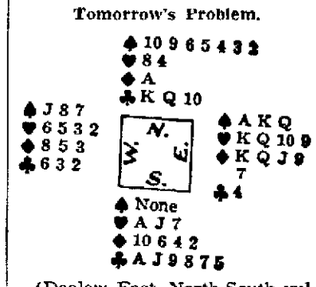
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer East. North-South vulnerable.)

How should South plan the play of this deal at 7-Clubs, doubled, after the lead of the diamond 8?

Rules For Keeping Sweet, Clean

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

JUST ABOUT once a year this department feels that it is time for us all to gather round and just be girls together. So today's column is—Strictly for Women Only.

Our scouts have just finished a little intimate survey on what is woman's subtlest appeal to the opposite sex. The survey included gentlemen from five to eighty-five. They were unanimous in saying it was their adored one's personal fragrance. And they didn't mean something you can buy at a perfumers.

Naturally every girl wants to be popular with her boss, boy friend, husband and children. So it looks like a long life of striving toward being fragrant and refreshing.

You have to set up your own habits of scrupulous care to keep yourself as sweet as you naturally are.

You have your daily bath, and you're a pretty sweet person. But don't stop there. Because no matter who you are or what you do there is going to be a little perspiration between you and your next tub.

Maybe you are one of those fortunate ones who only need to pat on some nice smelling talcum. Well you are lucky, but remember shaving under the arms will make even you feel fresh longer.

For the rest of the group there are two alternatives. One is using a deodorant. They can be gotten in either powder or cream form. They'll keep you smelling fresh as a daisy. But they don't even pretend to keep you from perspiring.

Two Alternatives.

The next alternative is an anti-perspirant. These preparations will definitely stop perspiration as well as odors. They are made to control the over-active sweat glands in local areas. They come in either liquid, cream or powder form. Here's a tip about using them — follow the instructions carefully and you won't go wrong

Another secret, which our grandmothers knew, and which is still a great help, is to turn your clothes inside out after each wearing. Then put them on a hanger and hang them out to air. Don't put them in the closet with the rest of your things. Air and sun have a marvelously refreshing effect on all fabrics.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

DELIGHT: Here is your make-up chart. Use blue eye shadow on greenish blue eyes This will bring out all the lovely blue lights. Black eyebrow pencil and black mascara should be used on black brows and lashes. Use a flame-colored rouge and a matching lipstick. Light rachel, or peach powder will blend nicely with your skin tone. Experiment with a little of each and see which one seems best suited to your skin.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"THAT MEANS we can pin up our ears for the rest of the afternoon," Mary said, as the woman in the next booth finished laying down the law to the man who had tried to force her hand in whatever nefarious scheme she was concocting against Dicky.

I knew what her flippancy meant. She was relaxing from the strain both of us had been undergoing while we tried to make sense of the jargon the man and woman had been talking. But I agreed with her premise. There would be nothing more for us to hear.

"Madame!"

"The crepe suzette, they are not good? Madame does not desire them?"

Mary to Rescue.

I looked at the untasted dessert before me and tried to find words to ease the man's dolor.

Mary came to the rescue with her usual quickness

"Madame is not feeling well," she said mendaciously. "A bad tooth," improving with gusto, "but she will be better soon, I think Please bring another order of crepes suzette and add it to our bill It is not your fault that the dish is spoiled, but ours alone. Can you bring us another order as quickly as possible?"

"Oh yes, Madame"

The waiter's smile was a sun bursting through clouds, and, as he bowed and hurried off, balancing our rejected desserts as he went, Mary smiled whimsically at me

"Poor Dear!" she said as the waiter disappeared. "He'll sleep better tonight because of my explanation and the extra order. It's a well-known fact that French waiters and chefs have terrific nightmares if the dishes they concoct and serve are not consumed to the last crumb."

Memory Working.

I knew she deliberately had tried to elicit the laugh I willingly gave her. Then she settled back in her chair and looked at me speculatively.

"I suppose the old memory has been working faithfully," she said.

I smiled valiantly at her.

"I think I have every word," I said confidently.

"Bully," she applauded softly. "I knew you would come through. Now, what say we put all this in little tins and seal it up until we get home and have a chance to open it up and stir it around and see what kind of seasoning to put in it?"

"I think that would be a most excellent idea," Dearest," I answered. "And, by the way, have you seen what our friend the detective is doing?"

"I haven't thought of him," she confessed, twisting around in her chair, and giving an elaborately casual glance over her shoulder.

"Yes, there he is, looking bored to tears. I don't believe he enjoys French food."

"What is your favorite invocation, Mary?" I asked with a grim little smile.

"I hope he chokes on it," she returned, grinning broadly. "I'm always at your service, Ma'am, to save you the trouble of saying the things that Puritan training of yours makes you reluctant to voice. Me—I've neither dignity nor conscience to lose But what do you think of timing our exit from here to match that of our little friends on the other side of the partition?"

"But how can we do that?" I queried, with attention distracted from her proposal by chagrin over her recognition of my involuntary cowardice in the matter of objurgation.

"Easiest thing you know," Mary retorted. "I'll ask for the check as soon as the waiter returns with our dessert, and give him the money to pay it. Then we'll keep our ears open, and when those two on the other side begin to show signs of going, we'll get out pronto, stroll around to the other side and pretend to be waiting for a taxi, while we get a good lamp at the beauties Isn't that a good scheme?"

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, April 16.

Despite some upsetting and dubious conditions, this may prove to be an exciting and thrilling day, with much progress and prosperity, satisfaction and fulfilled desires. The latter may have a business slant, while the adverse situation is likely to be involved with romance or the affections.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of conflicting situations with much progress, good fortune and gratification. However, sudden events of a rather startling complexion may occur in the private life. It may be a blasted courtship, a disrupted home or a rather devastating circumstance in social, artistic or entertainment engagements.

A child born on this day may have conspicuous talents in art, music, literature or in social graces and attainments which may give it material success and high position. Nevertheless, it may not have such satisfaction in its romantic affiliations.

Today's Recipes.

CREAMED ONION SOUP — One cup diced onion, two cups milk, one tablespoon butter, one and one-half tablespoons flour, two tablespoons glycerine, white pepper, one-half teaspoon salt. Boil the diced onion in small amount of salted water, until done. Scald milk in top of double boiler. Rub butter, flour, seasoning to a smooth paste and add to the hot milk, stirring until sauce is thick and smooth. Add glycerine, mixing thoroughly. Cover and cook sauce three minutes. Rub cooked onions through sieve into the hot sauce and serve.

The best way to control diseases in a summer flower garden is to take time out now to gather and burn all dead leaves and plant refuse left over from last season.

Burning the old growth now will prevent the spread of disease organisms to the tender, new growth soon to appear.

To loosen dirt on linoleum add a few tablespoons of kerosene to the water with which it is to be washed.
